Fat Pay Raises For U.S. Officials May Come Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Congress will have to move fast if it intends to give Richard M. Nixon a pay raise when he becomes president, or to stop a hefty salary hike for its own members.

President Johnson is expected to recommend across-the-board pay boosts from President on down through Congress and the executive and judiciary branches.

In order for Nixon to get a raise from the current pay scale of $100,000 yearly, Congress would have to give its approval before Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.

The Constitution forbids any change in the President's salary during his term in office. Thus, Congress would have to okay the boost before Jan. 20, or else Nixon will have to wait for a possible second term.

However, most other pay recommendations for congressmen, judges and various officials would go into effect in mid-February without Congressional action.

The increases may follow the recommendations of a nine-member commission created by Congress in 1967 to make a study of government pay scales.

While the commission itself has made no announcement of its proposals, congressional and other sources hear that it will recommend a yearly raise for members of Congress, from $30,000 to $50,000; a $35,000 hike for the chief justice to $75,000; increases for Associate Justices from $39,500 to $65,000; $25,000 boosts for cabinet officers to $60,000, and comparable raises for other executives.

The commission's jurisdiction does not include the salary of the President and the vice-president but it can suggest hikes. It has been reported the recommendations will be $100,000 to $150,000 for the President and from $43,000 to $75,000 for the vice president and the speaker of the House.

Congress could approve the whole thing, except for President and perhaps vice president and House speaker by simply doing nothing. Or it could kill the whole proposal or enact a law fixing different pay rates.

But if it does take action it must be within 3 days after the President makes his recommendations, or the congressional, judiciary and other executive pay boosts automatically become law.

NEWCASTLE, England (AP) — A prosecutor said today two girls aged 11 and 13 accused each other of strangling a 3-year-old boy and cutting his abdomen with a razor blade.

But Rudolph Lyons told a Newcastle court Brian Edward Howe was murdered jointly last July 31 by Norma Joyce Bell, 13, and Mary Flora Bell, 11. He said fibers from the clothes of both girls were found on the boy's body.

The two girls, next-door neighbors but unrelated, pleaded innocent when their trial opened Thursday to charges of strangling Brian Howe and Martin George Brown, 4, within two months "solely for the pleasure and excitement afforded by killing."

Roundtown

LOW temperature reading on Thursday in the Roundtown area duplicated the previous low of the season which occurred on Nov. 9, when the thermometer registered a low reading of 23 degrees. Winter weather is here to stay for awhile according to the local weather observer who predicted a daytime high on Saturday of 30 degrees.

A SERVICE window will be open Saturday at the Circleville Post Office from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. instead of the regular schedule of 8:30-12 noon. Postmaster Charles Walters urges all residents to start mailing packages for Christmas delivery and emphasized the need for persons to purchase stamps now to avoid long lines and consequent delay of service.

WITHOUT ceremony, the Cliftona Theater opened its doors Thursday night and the giant silver screen came to life for the more than 300 movie fans in the auditorium. College Student Protests Spread

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Student protests spread to Brown University's Ivy League campus and the halls of Washington University in suburban St. Louis Thursday while violence again struck at trouble-racked San Francisco State College.

Police used drawn pistols and crowd-control chemical sprays to turn back an advancing mob of 150 striking students in the San Francisco College administration building. At least 32 persons were injured in a subsequent melee, two seriously.

Negro community leaders and two white clergymen were among 26 arrested. A total of 61 persons have been arrested since acting president S.I. Hayakawa reopened the 18,000-student campus Monday.

Hayakawa and Mayor Joseph Alioto prepared today to respond to minority students' demands for an ethics studies department, but there was no guarantee that the announcement would end the month-long disturbance.

In St. Louis, about 40 of 100 Negroes enrolled at the 14,000-student Washington University campus locked themselves in the campus police station Thursday night protesting the alleged mistreatment of a Negro graduate student.

Another 200 white students occupied another administration office in the orderly and peaceful demonstration to back the Negro student's demands that three security officers be fired and two others suspended.

The graduate student involved, Elbert Walton of St.

Louis, said campus police grabbed his legs, made him fall, kicked him and handcuffed him and forced him into a patrol car. Police said Walton was released after showing he was a student.

Chancellor Thomas H. Eliot refused to take any action pending a hearing for the officers. One administration source said Walton put up a struggle and struck two officers when stopped for questioning.

Brown University in Providence, R.I., agreed to demands of Negro students who said they would boycott classes until black enrollment was increased. Students said they would study the proposal before accepting it.

About 65 students at Brown and Pembroke, its sister college, had earlier marched off campus declaring that a refusal of their demands would show that "it is a racist institution and plans to stay that way."

Nixon Won't Send Anyone To Paris Until President

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon has reaffirmed his intention not to send an interim observer to Paris to sit in on the Vietnam peace talks.

Earlier Thursday W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator in Paris, emerged from an hour-long meeting with the President-elect and indicated that a representative of the new administration probably would be sent to Paris before the first of the year.

"I got the impression that he will send an observer," Harriman said of Nixon, "but I don't know who he will be or when he will come."

"It seems to Mr. (Cyrus R.) Vance and I that this will be a very excellent way to show continuity," Harriman said. "It was perfectly clear that Mr. Nixon wanted to have a continuity in these negotiations."

Standing beside Harriman at that moment was Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press spokesman, who, less than 24 hours earlier, had disclosed that Nixon already had reached a tentative decision against sending a pre-inauguration envoy to Paris.

On this later occasion, Ziegler listened to Harriman express confidence such an emissary would be dispatched and commented: "The thinking at this time is leaning toward sending an observer."

Ziegler interposed no objection when Harriman further related that both he and Cyrus R. Vance, deputy negotiator in Paris, would be replaced by one or more Nixon appointees soon after Jan. 20, Harriman did say Vance might remain in Paris "only a few days" to help the Nixon team.

Czech Press Control Chief Fired; Sees Stiffer Curbs

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czechoslovak government has replaced its liberal-minded press control chief amid a cross fire of criticism of his department.

Prague Radio said Thursday night that Deputy Premier Peter Colotka was being replaced as chairman of the committee for press and information by Deputy Education Minister Jaroslav Havelka. Colotka will continue to be a deputy premier.

No reason for the change was announced, but Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek told 1,200 miners in North Bohemia Thursday night that the press must work to implement party policy.

"It is necessary to increase the responsibility of publishers for the activities of mass information media in order that they become an instrument that will consistently and with initiative help to implement the policy of the party," he declared.

"This is not a question of re-creations but a placing of emphasis on the active Socialist approach of all media of information to the present-day tasks, in order that our society may pass through the present complicated period in an organized way—without a deeper upheaval."

The press and information committee was created in response to demands from Moscow for an end to the freedom of the press and radio which Dubcek's regime had allowed to flourish since last January. A curb on the press was one of the purposes of the Soviet invasion last August.

Colotka had been seeking to reopen channels of information to Czechoslovak journalists, and loopholes had been appearing in the censorship and controls his committee was supposed to enforce.

Italy Calm As Workers Back On Job

ROME (AP) — Workers in Rome returned to their jobs today, ending a 24-hour strike that took place amid calm and growing expectation that Italy's government crisis is nearing an end.

Only the students stayed in the streets to demand school reforms and keep the pressure on Premier-designate Mariano Rumor, whose talks to form a new center-left government were expected to be completed Saturday.

Workers in Rome and in the rest of the country quieted down after Communist unions told them to avoid trouble. The Communists apparently were afraid more violence after two weeks of turmoil would spark a military coup.

The killing of two farmhands in Sicily by police Monday heightened the disorders as demonstrators clashed with police in many cities.

Students and workers often joined forces in massive marches that drastically reduced activity in the country's major cities. High schools and university faculties were occupied. Strikes idled many sectors of the economy.

Agnew Sees Self In More Controversies

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew said today that just as he was a controversial candidate in the presidential campaign "there is no reason to believe that I will be any less controversial as vice president."

Speaking in advance of President-elect Richard M. Nixon's arrival at the Republican governors' conference, Agnew predicted that the new GOP administration will provide "an era of renaissance for state governments" by giving them flexibility in spending federal grants.

Designated by Nixon as his liaison with state governors, Agnew gave voice to the complaints that the governors have been stacking up to present to Nixon, who is scheduled for a midday arrival. Aides said Nixon expects to talk to every GOP governor and those newly elected before and after he speaks at a formal conference state dinner tonight.

Confiscate Ton Of Deer Horn

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Customs police said today they confiscated almost a ton of deer horn being smuggled in from Communist China for Thais who believe it is a powerful aphrodisiac.

The police said their raid on a boat anchored about 200 yards off the coast also netted a quantity of ginseng, a Korean wine which Thai men think gives them strength.

The horn and the wine were worth about $1.5 million and were the biggest such seizure this year, a customs officer said.

Ashtabula, Lake Counties Hardest Hit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A winter-flavored cold snap numbed the nation's midsection today and dumped hubcap-deep snows into the eastern Great Lakes region.

Temperatures plummeted near zero from Montana to Minnesota before daybreak. The mercury shivered to 1 above at Fargo, N.D., just after midnight.

The prewinter cold wave brought some of the lowest temperatures of the season to portions of the Midwest, and it scattered frost well into the deep South for the second day in a row.

Riding winds of 50 and 60 miles an hour, the cold swept across the midwest Thursday, scooped moisture out of the Great Lakes and flung heavy snow into portions of Michigan, Pennsylvania and New York.

Six deaths were attributed to the weather in New York State, where the upstate community of Boonville was hobbled by 15 inches of snow in 24 hours. This fell atop an earlier accumulation of 7 inches.

Residents of Clymer, in western New York, awoke to find a snowfall of 18 inches.

The high winds frequently toppled trees and power lines and left scattered power failures from Ohio to New York late Thursday. The northeastern Ohio community of Conneaut, along Lake Erie, remained without power through much of the night. Several hundred of its 11,000 residents lined up for soup and sandwiches at a Red Cross emergency center set up in a church.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Rose Bowl football game in California may cause auto parking problems in Columbus.

It won't be a cross-country traffic jam but Columbus airport superintendent John Clifford has urged fans: "If you fly to the Rose Bowl don't drive."

Clifford expects 60 or more chartered jet flights from Port Columbus to the West Coast for the game. Most will carry 100 or more passengers.

Clifford said he can handle the airplanes but that if everyone drives a car to the airport and parks it several days there'll be a massive parking problem.

Flu Vaccine Trouble Seen

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Doctors are having a hard time fighting the Hong Kong flu because the flu virus changes from year to year, area to area, even case to case.

That is why vaccine being developed to prevent this year's variant of the Asian flu remains an unknown quantity, doctors at the National Communicable Disease Center said. They expect Hong Kong flu to reach epidemic proportions in the United States this winter.

"We're lucky in most years if a vaccine is 60 to 70 per cent effective," Dr. Bruce Dull, assistant director of the center, said. "Our biggest problem is trying to educate people to understand that flu is different from all other infectious diseases."

The difference lies in what scientists call the "antigenic drift."

An antigen is a substance that causes the formation of antibodies. In all viruses except the ones causing flu, the antigens do not change. Therefore, a vaccine once effective against a virus-caused disease is always effective.

Scientists do not know why, or even exactly how, but flu viruses are different. This change or mutability usually is so small that a vaccine developed for one strain will have at least a limited effect on a newer type.

Occasionally, however, flu virus antigens will show a more marked difference, as in the case of Hong Kong flu, and a new vaccine is needed.

A new vaccine has been developed, using fertile chicken eggs to grow the virus strain used in inoculation. But nobody knows yet how effective it will be.

U.S. To Join Maneuvers In Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 15,500 U.S. troops and four jet fighter squadrons will be sent to West Germany for maneuvers in January and February, the Pentagon announced today.

The Army and Air Force units involved were withdrawn from Germany last summer and returned to the United States in a move to reduce the balance-of-payments problem.

Their airlift return to Europe for exercises was moved up to an earlier date as one of a series of U.S. military moves designed to bolster the readiness of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in the face of the Soviet-led occupation of Czechoslovakia and increased tensions in Central Europe.

The Army units, including two brigades of the 24th Infantry Division, will return to the United States after completing the exercise, the Pentagon said.

Officials said they do not know how long the maneuvers will last.

The four squadrons, flying F4 Phantom fighter-bombers, "will remain temporarily in Europe to complete additional training before returning to their bases in the U.S.," the Pentagon said.
This indicated that, for the time being at least, the United States intended to strengthen its tactical air power in Europe. Other NATO nations also have agreed to shore up their defenses and contributions to the alliance.

In 1916, the Save-the-Redwoods League raised funds to save the giant redwoods (Sequoia gigantea), a species larger in diameter than coast redwoods (Sequoia sempervirens) but not as tall.

Ashtabula,

Highway travel remained hazardous in spots through northeastern Ohio, northwest Pennsylvania and in upstate New York. Many roads were impassable because of ice in New York's Finger Lakes region.
Far to the west, showers dampened the northern Pacific Coast and spilled inland as snow over the Cascades and into mountain sections of Montana.
Fog blanketed portions of California and the western Gulf Coast before daybreak.
A Red Cross worker said she expected several hundred persons to visit the emergency center in Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church in Conneaut.

The storm hit hardest along Lake Erie in Lake and Ashtabula counties. Schools were closed. Power lines were knocked down. Driving was hazardous.
There was not much snow, but what fell was icy and heavy, causing tree limbs to sag onto power lines.
The CEI spokesman said about 4,000 customers were without power at one time or another in Lake and Ashtabula counties. There were 180 repairmen working in Lake County Thursday afternoon.
There were about 190 cases of wires being down in both counties, the spokesman added.
Ashtabula police said things "were not bad" there. Some power lines were down and the Red Cross had volunteered to arrange a setup similar to the one in Conneaut. "There was no apparent need for it," a police sergeant said.
There were no injuries reported in connection with the storm.
Winds up to 63 m.p.h. hit the Greater Cleveland area. Police reported 125 rush hour accidents in the morning with more than 75 in the suburbs.
Schools were closed in Wiloughby and Eastlake and in the Perry District of Lake County. Schools also closed in Conneaut for lack of power and heat.
Strong winds caused flooding along low lying residential areas of Chagrin Lagoon in Eastlake and residents sought higher ground until the water receded.

By DAN VAN PHUOC
DIEN BAN, Vietnam (AP) — The North Vietnamese had fought hard, but now the advancing American Marines had trapped them in their bunkers, and they were afraid.

"If I come out, will they shoot me?" One of the men in the bunker asked.

"If you come out with your hands up, they won't kill you," I told him. "But you must not have anything in your hands. If they see you have a grenade or a gun, they will shoot."

It was the 16th day of Operation Meade River, a massive allied operation to trap enemy troops in one of their favorite operating areas, and this was the hard part.

The operation area now covered an area of less than two square miles, mostly open land hilly with natural and man-made hiding places. Many of the bunkers had been here for years, and some were almost untouched by the pounding of artillery and air strikes that had preceded the Marines' advance.
There was little firing as the men of the 3rd Battalion, 26th Marines moved forward to root out the remaining enemy from the territory inside the horseshoe bend of a small river near the village of Dien Ban, 15 miles south of Da Nang.

There was a report that 60 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had escaped through the inner cordon and were trying to get away to the west or north, where another line of Marines was in position.

But here the immediate concern was the slow, dangerous job of checking the bunkers one by one. Bombs and shells had collapsed the roofs of some. Many were empty. Others had only dead in them.
A Marine, his revolver in hand, squeezed into the entrance of one bunker, then reappeared.
"There's two in there," he said. "They won't come out."
I went forward and crawled into the hole.
The first man came out, his empty hands stretched out before him. Two others followed, another North Vietnamese and a 16-year-old girl who said she was Viet Cong.
All three were wounded slightly and had not eaten for two days. The first soldier, who identified himself as a messenger, said that when they rest of the unit pulled out, they took along the weapons of the ones who stayed behind.
About 150 yards away, the Marines had found another bunker—a huge affair that yielded one prisoner, a North Vietnamese lieutenant. He said he had been on the staff of a battalion which used the big bunker as its command post.
The lieutenant said that while he had been in South Vietnam for six months, most of the men in his unit were new.
"But they are very tired from the fighting and the bombing all the time," he said, speaking calmly in a low voice, "and I am very tired, too. I do not want to go on."

Thomas Jefferson, in his memoirs of Virginia, originally cited the famous oration which had been given by Chief Logan in the presence of Colonel John Gibson.

Pentagon To Free Reservists, Boost Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army announced today it will release about 20,000 National Guardsmen and reservists from active duty about five months early and that draft calls will be increased to replace them.
About half of the Guardsmen and reservists who were mobilized last May will be returned to civilian life by Oct. 31 next year and the other 10,000 by Dec. 15, 1969.

At the same time, the Army said, "draft calls will continue to be adjusted by an amount sufficient to cover those releases" so that the demobilization will not lower the readiness of the active forces.

The announcement provided no figures on increased draft calls, but sources said the boost will amount to about 3,000 men a month.

These sources said that draft calls will rise starting several months ahead of time so that regulars will be ready to fill the manpower spaces left by the departing Guardsmen and reservists.

The announcement indicated that a Vietnam war settlement might speed the demobilization. "Should conditions in Vietnam permit," the statement said, "consideration can be given at a later date to a final release of all Army Reserve members and Guardsmen earlier than Dec. 15, 1969."

Army officials calculate it takes about five months to put a man through basic and advanced individual training, and give him leave, before he can be assigned to a unit.

The Army said there will be "sufficient leave time to make sure that trained men are available to replace the Army Reserve members and National Guardsmen at the time of their release."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yipie leader Jerry Rubin says House members investigating the Chicago street disorders don't want him to appear in open session because they fear what he'll say.

Rubin, who was tossed out of a session earlier this week because he wore a Santa Claus suit, said Thursday he wouldn't testify at today's hearings chaired by Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., unless they were open to the press and public.

The special subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities said Rubin was called to testify in closed session because he faces charges in Illinois for solicitation to commit mob action during demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention.

The subcommittee has held hearings all week long into disturbances at the August convention.

Rubin was permitted in the hearing room Thursday when he arrived wearing a blue sweater, brown slacks and a beaded band around his forehead beneath a full head of bushy dark hair. He also has a full beard.

In a statement distributed Thursday, Rubin said: "The inquisitors have demanded that I take the stand Friday behind locked doors—closed to the press and public. They know that I will expose them as the fools, racists, cowards that they are. I will not say a word to HUAC unless the doors are opened and the press and the public admitted."

Charles E. Schwalbach, 43, Route 4, pleaded guilty to two traffic counts Thursday in Circleville Municipal Court.
Schwalbach was cited by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle and for falsely reporting his automobile stolen.
Schwalbach pleaded guilty to both counts. For no license, Judge Sterling Lamb levied a fine of $50 and costs. On the second count, the judge fined Schwalbach $100 and costs and sentenced him to 90 days in the county jail. He suspended $50 of the fine and the jail sentence, placing Schwalbach on probation for three years.
Russell E. Clements, 19, 416 E. Mill St., was fined $50 and costs for driving Schwalbach's car when he had no valid license. He pleaded guilty.
Other motorists on the court docket paid fines, costs and bond forfeitures totaling $150.

Less than a month ago, Nov. 18, the Army announced that 30 basic combat training companies at Ft. Bliss, Tex., and 18 advanced individual training companies at Ft. Dix, N.J., would be eliminated.

Since then, sources said, it was decided to set a target and get prepared for release of the 20,000 guardsmen and reservists ordered to active duty last spring to supply support troops for Vietnam and to plug some holes in the Army's forces in the United States.

The January draft call has been set at 26,800. It was not known immediately whether that quota will be raised or whether the increase will show up in later months.

A total of 38,000 Army, Air Force and Navy reservists and guardsmen were mustered in the wake of the enemy's winter offensive in Vietnam and a flareup of tensions in Korea stemming from the seizure of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo.

The Air Force already has started freeing 16,127 reservists and guardsmen. All of them, including members of six guard fighter-bomber squadrons now in South Vietnam and South Korea, are due back in civilian life by June 30.

Mobilized pilots and navigators will be replaced from the Air Force's regular training output and what it calls its "personal management."

The Navy also has replaced some of the 1,600 reservists it ordered up earlier this year.

Most of the 13,600 Army guardsmen and 6,400 Army reservists were ordered into uniform last May.
Some 7,600 of them have gone to South Vietnam in 76 units, mostly company and detachment-size outfits performing transportation, medical, ordnance, signal and quartermaster work.

their complaints that Washington parcels out federal grant money on an uneven basis and keeps its hand too rigidly on spending.

Agnew told a conference panel: "I was a controversial governor. I have been a controversial candidate for vice president. There is no reason to believe that I will be any less controversial as vice president."

"I do not intend to play games with the secret meaning of words nor practice the gentle art of the platitude. I do not intend to rely on dictionary definitions and (do intend) to call the shots as I see them. I think this is what Richard Nixon selected me to do and what the American people elected me to do."

In a speech that obviously passed through the Nixon clearing house and was stamped valid, Agnew came out in favor of block grants to the states. This would give them more leeway in spending federal funds.

Agnew said, there had developed "an unhealthy short circuit" between Washington and the cities which detoured state government control of programs.

U.S. To Join Maneuvers In Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 15,500 U.S. troops and four jet fighter squadrons will be sent to West Germany for maneuvers in January and February, the Pentagon announced today.

The Army and Air Force units involved were withdrawn from Germany last summer and returned to the United States in a move to reduce the balance-of-payments problem.

Their airlift return to Europe for exercises was moved up to an earlier date as one of a series of U.S. military moves designed to bolster the readiness of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in the face of the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia and increased tensions in Central Europe.

The Army units, including two brigades of the 24th Infantry Division, will return to the United States after completing the exercise, the Pentagon said.

Officials said they do not know how long the maneuvers will last.

The four squadrons, flying F4 Phantom fighter-bombers, "will remain temporarily in Europe to complete additional training before returning to their bases in the U.S.," the Pentagon said.

This indicated that, for the time being at least, the United States intended to strengthen its tactical air power in Europe. Other NATO nations also have agreed to shore up their defenses and contributions to the alliance.

In 1916, the Save-the-Redwoods League raised funds to save the giant redwoods (Sequoia gigantea), a species larger in diameter than coast redwoods (Sequoia sempervirens) but not as tall.

Ashtabula,

Highway travel remained hazardous in spots through northeastern Ohio, northwestern Pennsylvania and in upstate New York. Many roads were impassable because of ice in New York's Finger Lakes region.

Far to the west, showers dampened the northern Pacific Coast and spilled inland as snow over the Cascades and into mountain sections of Montana.

Fog blanketed portions of California and the western Gulf Coast before daybreak.

A Red Cross worker said she expected several hundred persons to visit the emergency center in Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church in Conneaut.

The storm hit hardest along Lake Erie in Lake and Ashtabula counties. Schools were closed. Power lines were knocked down. Driving was hazardous.

There was not much snow, but what fell was icy and heavy, causing tree limbs to sag onto power lines.

The CEI spokesman said about 4,000 customers were without power at one time or another in Lake and Ashtabula counties. There were 180 repairmen working in Lake County Thursday afternoon.

There were about 190 cases of wires being down in both counties, the spokesman added. Ashtabula police said things "were not bad" there. Some power lines were down and the Red Cross had volunteered to arrange a setup similar to the one in Conneaut. "There was no apparent need for it," a police sergeant said.

There were no injuries reported in connection with the storm. Winds up to 63 m.p.h. hit the Greater Cleveland area. Police reported 125 rush hour accidents in the morning with more than 75 in the suburbs.

Schools were closed in Willoughby and Eastlake and in the Perry District of Lake County. Schools also closed in Conneaut for lack of power and heat.

Strong winds caused flooding along low lying residential areas of Chagrin Lagoon in Eastlake and residents sought higher ground until the water receded.

Clubs Invited To Landscape Museum

The Pickaway County Historical Society, in an active business session, authorized the president to invite all garden clubs of Pickaway County, in a joint venture, to landscape the grounds of the Pickaway County Historical Museum, with the landscaping plans subject to approval by the Board of Trustees.

A resolution was also passed supporting the action of the DAR in relocating the monument at the site of Camp Charlotte as requested by the Highway Department with approval based upon the new location having adequate parking facilities to permit interested parties to view the historic site.

Camp Charlotte is presently marked by a monument furnished by the D.A.R. at the site opposite the home of Commissioner Charles Morris on Route 56. This site was the location of the camp of Lord Dunmore and 2,500 Virginia Militia who had come to Pickaway County to eliminate the Shawnee Indians. Chief Logan of the Mingos was invited to the encampment to sit in the peace councils. Logan, whose entire family had been killed, refused to take part in the discussion; instead, remained aloof and, with a white friend, strode to the majestic Logan Elm under whose boughs he gave his now-famous oration which is considered, in its eloquence, to be on a par with Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Thomas Jefferson, in his memoirs of Virginia, originally cited the famous oration which had been given by Chief Logan in the presence of Colonel John Gibson.

Pentagon To Free Reservists, Boost Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army announced today it will release about 20,000 National Guardsmen and reservists from active duty about five months early and that draft calls will be increased to replace them.

About half of the Guardsmen and reservists who were mobilized last May will be returned to civilian life by Oct. 31 next year and the other 10,000 by Dec. 15, 1969.

At the same time, the Army said, "draft calls will continue to be adjusted by an amount sufficient to cover those releases."

Trapped Cong Afraid Of U.S. Marines

By DAN VAN PHUOC

DIEN BAN, Vietnam (AP) — The North Vietnamese had fought hard, but now the advancing American Marines had trapped them in their bunkers, and they were afraid.

"If I come out, will they shoot me?" One of the men in the bunker asked.

"If you come out with your hands up, they won't kill you," I told him. "But you must not have anything in your hands. If they see you have a grenade or a gun, they will shoot."

It was the 16th day of Operation Meade River, a massive allied operation to trap enemy troops in one of their favorite operating areas, and this was the hard part.

The operation area now covered an area of less than two square miles, mostly open land honeycombed with natural and man-made hiding places. Many of the bunkers had been here for years, and some were almost untouched by the pounding of artillery and air strikes that had preceded the Marines' advance.

There was little firing as the men of the 3rd Battalion, 26th Marines moved forward to root out the remaining enemy from the territory inside the horseshoe bend of a small river near the village of Dien Ban, 15 miles south of Da Nang.

There was a report that 60 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had escaped through the inner cordon and were trying to get away to the west or north, where another line of Marines was in position.

But here the immediate concern was the slow, dangerous job of checking the bunkers one by one. Bombs and shells had collapsed the roofs of some. Many were empty. Others had only dead in them.

A Marine, his revolver in hand, squeezed into the entrance of one bunker, then reappeared.

"There's two in there," he said. "They won't come out."

I went forward and crawled into the hole. The first man came out, his empty hands stretched out before him. Two others followed, another North Vietnamese and a 16-year-old girl who said she was Viet Cong.

All three were wounded slightly and had not eaten for two days. The first soldier, who identified himself as a messenger, said that when they rest of the unit pulled out, they took along the weapons of the ones who stayed behind.

About 150 yards away, the Marines had found another bunker—a huge affair that yielded one prisoner, a North Vietnamese lieutenant. He said he had been on the staff of a battalion which used the big bunker as its command post.

The lieutenant said that while he had been in South Vietnam for six months, most of the men in his unit were new.

"But they are very tired from the fighting and the bombing all the time," he said, speaking calmly in a low voice, "and I am very tired, too. I do not want to go on."

Less than a month ago, Nov. 18, the Army announced that 30 basic combat training companies at Ft. Bliss, Tex., and 18 advanced individual training companies at Ft. Dix, N.J., would be eliminated.

Since then, sources said, it was decided to set a target and get prepared for release of the 20,000 guardsmen and reservists ordered to active duty last spring to supply support troops for Vietnam and to plug some holes in the Army's forces in the United States. The January draft call has been set at 26,800. It was not known immediately whether that quota will be raised or whether the increase will show up in later months.

A total of 38,000 Army, Air Force and Navy reservists and guardsmen were mustered in the wake of the enemy's winter offensive in Vietnam and a flareup of tensions in Korea stemming from the seizure of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo.

The Air Force already has started freeing 16,127 reservists and guardsmen. All of them, including members of six guard fighter-bomber squadrons now in South Vietnam and South Korea, are due back in civilian life by June 30.

Mobilized pilots and navigators will be replaced from the Air Force's regular training output and what it calls its "personal management."

The Navy also has replaced some of the 1,600 reservists it ordered up earlier this year.

Most of the 13,600 Army guardsmen and 6,400 Army reservists were ordered into uniform last May.

Some 7,600 of them have gone to South Vietnam in 76 units, mostly company and detachment-size outfits performing transportation, medical, ordnance, signal and quartermaster work.

Fashion Designers Keep Close Eye On Nixon's Arrival

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — As the Lyndon Johnsons clear their closets of LBJ hats, Hickey Freeman suits, Mollie Parnis and Adele Simpson dresses, the American fashion industry ponders what new styles will replace them.

It matters to formal wear manufacturers whether the new president elects to be a boiled shirt fan or a black tie and tux man. Not only Washington but the nation will literally follow suit.

It matters to the families of hatmakers whether the top man covers his thinning curls with a topper. And it matters to furriers whether Mrs. Richard M. Nixon abandons her "good Republican cloth coat," as her husband describes it.

It matters to dress designers which of their labels the new First Lady chooses to hang in her wardrobe.

Whether their style is imitated, the fashion choices of the First Family are equivalent in prestige to the British crown's court appointments.

Although the Nixons are not as handicapped in following the Johnsons as the Johnson ladies were in following the elegant Mrs. John F. Kennedy, they will necessarily develop a greater fashion consciousness.

"I've never known a First Lady yet who did not become more aware of clothes," says Mollie Parnis who has known and dressed the ladies of four administrations. "She becomes more conscious of how clothes look in photographs, how they walk or sit down, or wrinkle, or whether the press might be critical of them."

"In the early days of the Johnson administration, the catfist of the fashion press meowed at what it considered the plain, slightly overweight, and dowdily dressed teen-aged girls and their mother. Soon enough they were purring with praise for the suddenly slimmer and prettier trio who had wisely submitted themselves to make up and fashion expertise.

As her husband's political star has risen, Pat Nixon's tastes have evolved from fussy little lace debutante dresses with corages on the shoulder to simple and sophisticated garments in the $150 to $200 class.

On the whole, the garment district is pleased with the 56-year-old, Size 10 Mrs. Nixon and her Eastern boarding school-type daughters, Julie and Pat. "Her daughters will keep her on her toes, keep her with it," observed Vince Monte-Sano, president of the New York Couture Group.

The dean of American couturiers, Norman Norell was delighted that Mrs. Nixon has appeared in several photographs wearing the same suit, "a classic little thing with cross tabs on the shoulders.

"That's good," Norell said. "She's putting fashion in its proper perspective. A First Lady should not be so enthralled with fashion that she has to wear something different every day."

Although flowers, veils and straw sailors used to cap the once brown now blonde tresses of Pat Nixon, today she seldom covers her casually curled, sometimes teased coiffures.

"I doubt if she would have much influence on the hat wearing habits of women anyway," mused a spokesman for the Millinery Institute. "You have to have a very strong personality to be a trend-setter." But as Monte-Sano points out "Jackie had an ethereal quality which was hers alone. The average woman could admire that. Still, they could not really identify with it. "Mrs. Nixon's good looks are basic. Actually, they are much more attainable than the glamorous Jackie's."

Perhaps the heaviest fashion penalty Mrs. Nixon was said to have paid for her husband's political ambitions, was to give up the public luxury of a fur coat.

As a result of Nixon mentioning her "good Republican cloth coat" in his 1952 television defense of his campaign funds, Mrs. Nixon went without furs—at least publicly—for years. However, she now has an Afghanistan broadtail coat made from pelts obtained during a visit there, and recently she became the owner of a blond mink.

Though President Dwight D. Eisenhower inspired the military jacket, and by example President Harry S. Truman provided the courage to wear gaudily flowered sports shirts, men in public office have not been looked upon as style pacesetters and therefore were fairly free of fashion criticism.

But like his wife, John F. Kennedy cut such a dashing figure that he changed all that. When haters blamed a growing bareheadedness on the Kennedy's disdain for a hat, he obliged by carrying one. On the other hand, he did not give in to the howls of formal wear manufacturers over his refusal to wear white tie and tails.

Johnson's favorite suit was a dark charcoal worsted with a hint of pinstripe. Always a tiny inch-high triangle of a handkerchief peeked out of his breast-pocket. But Johnson has firmly insisted on an elephantine cut of his trousers despite a 15-year trend for slimmer trousers. The next president is not likely to be caught in his shirt sleeve, photographers on his campaign trail discovered. They tried hard to capture Nixon's image

Santa and the Hippies
By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Edgar sends Ding Dong To Santa Land where Mrs. Claus prepares to feed him all the things she thinks a hippie would like to eat.

CHAPTER 6
DING DONG TRICKS SANTA
DING DONG tried to eat the pizzas and chocolate pies that Mrs. Claus laid out for him on the kitchen table. The more he tried the greener he got.

"Oh, my!" clucked Mrs. Claus. "You don't look well at all!"
She dumped a teaspoonful of green medicine into a glass of water. "Drink that quick!" she ordered. Before Ding Dong knew what he was about he'd swallowed the dose.

Immediately he felt better. "Hippies need to be taken care of same as anyone else though they may not think so themselves," grumbled Mrs. Claus.

Ding Dong saw to his horror that she was fetching a large washtub from under the kitchen sink.

"Oh, no!" he thought. "Not a bath!" What would his friends in Hippieville say to that? He leaped to his feet and charged out the kitchen door before Mrs. Claus could turn from the sink.

He ran down to the fields where Santa's reindeer were being fed by a crew of elves. The deer were friendly and full of life.

"Can they really fly?" asked Ding Dong.

"Try one and see," said an elf.

He boosted Ding Dong onto a reindeer's back. The deer sprang off the ground and soared into the sky.

Ding Dong felt as though he were riding the wind. He had never felt so free and happy. When the ride was over he took the reindeer back to the barn. He rubbed him down with towels and covered him with blankets so he wouldn't catch cold and not be able to ride on Christmas Eve.

Then he remembered that no reindeer would fly on Christmas because Santa would be a prisoner in Hippieville and he himself would be the one to capture Santa.

He felt badly about the whole thing. But what could he do now? The hippies were counting on him.

He wondered over to the toy shops where the elves were feverishly working on the toys children had asked for Christmas.

"Can't stop a minute," apologized an elf. "If we do, some child's order won't be filled."

Ding Dong felt worse than ever. Was it wrong to take Christmas away from everyone just because the hippies wanted to do as they pleased? Ding

"I can't stop a minute," apologized an elf.

Ding decided he wouldn't capture Santa after all. Just then Santa came into the shop. "I've finished my letters. Now what can I do for you?"

"Nothing," muttered Ding Dong.

"What! You came all this way to ask for nothing?"

"I've changed my mind," said Ding Dong, shamefaced.

"That's too bad," said Santa.

Fashion Designers Keep Close Eye On Nixon's Arrival

The Circleville Herald, Fri. Dec. 6, 1968
Circleville, Ohio

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — As the Lyndon Johnsons clear their closets of LBJ hats, Hickey Freeman suits, Mollie Parnis and Adele Simpson dresses, the American fashion industry ponders what new styles will replace them.

It matters to formal wear manufacturers whether the new president elects to be a boiled shirt fan or a black tie and tux man. Not only Washington but the nation will literally follow suit.

It matters to the families of hatmakers whether the top man covers his thinning curls with a topper. And it matters to furriers whether Mrs. Richard M. Nixon abandons her "good Republican cloth coat," as her husband describes it.

It matters to dress designers which of their labels the new First Lady chooses to hang in her wardrobe.

Whether their style is imitated, the fashion choices of the First Family are equivalent in prestige to the British crown's court appointments.

Although the Nixons are not as handicapped in following the Johnsons as the Johnson ladies were in following the elegant Mrs. John F. Kennedy, they will necessarily develop a greater fashion consciousness.

"I've never known a First Lady yet who did not become more aware of clothes," says Mollie Parnis who has known and dressed the ladies of four administrations. "She becomes more conscious of how clothes look in photographs, how they walk or sit down, or wrinkle, or whether the press might be critical of them."

"In the early days of the Johnson administration, the cattiest of the fashion press meowed at what it considered the plain, slightly overweight, and dowdily dressed teen-aged girls and their mother. Soon enough they were purring with praise for the suddenly slimmer and prettier trio who had wisely submitted themselves to make up and fashion expertise."

As her husband's political star has risen, Pat Nixon's tastes have evolved from fussy little lace debutante dresses with corsets on the shoulder to simple and sophisticated garments in the $150 to $200 class.

On the whole, the garment district is pleased with the 56-year-old, Size 10 Mrs. Nixon and her Eastern boarding school-type daughters, Julie and Pat.

"Her daughters will keep her on her toes, keep her with it," observed Vince Monte-Sano, president of the New York Couture Group.

The dean of American couturiers, Norman Norell was delighted that Mrs. Nixon has appeared in several photographs wearing the same suit, "a classic little thing with cross tabs on the shoulders."

"That's good," Norell said. "She's putting fashion in its proper perspective. A First Lady should not be so enthralled with fashion that she has to wear something different every day."

Although flowers, veils and straw sailors used to cap the once brown now blonde tresses of Pat Nixon, today she seldom covers her casually curled, sometimes teased coiffures.

"I doubt if she would have much influence on the hat wearing habits of women anyway," mused a spokesman for the Millinery Institute. "You have to have a very strong personality to be a trend-setter." But as Monte-Sano points out "Jackie had an ethereal quality which was hers alone. The average woman could admire that. Still, they could not really identify with it. "Mrs. Nixon's good looks are basic. Actually, they are much more attainable than the glamorous Jackie's." Perhaps the heaviest fashion penalty Mrs. Nixon was said to have paid for her husband's political ambitions, was to give up the public luxury of a fur coat.

As a result of Nixon mentioning her "good Republican cloth coat" in his 1952 television defense of his campaign funds, Mrs. Nixon went without furs—at least publicly—for years. However, she now has an Afghanistan broadtail coat made from pelts obtained during a visit there, and recently she became the owner of a blond mink.

Though President Dwight D. Eisenhower inspired the military jacket, and by example President Harry S. Truman provided the courage to wear gaudily flowered sports shirts, men in public office have not been looked upon as style pacesetters and therefore were fairly free of fashion criticism.

But like his wife, John F. Kennedy cut such a dashing figure that he changed all that. When haters blamed a growing bareheadedness on the Kennedy's disdain for a hat, he obliged by carrying one. On the other hand, he did not give in to the howls of formal wear manufacturers over his refusal to wear white tie and tails.

Johnson's favorite suit was a dark charcoal worsted with a hint of pinstripe. Always a tiny inch-high triangle of a handkerchief peeked out of his breast-pocket. But Johnson has firmly insisted on an elephantine cut of his trousers despite a 15-year trend for slimmer trousers. The next president is not likely to be caught in his shirt sleeve, photographers on his campaign trail discovered. They tried hard to capture Nixon's image

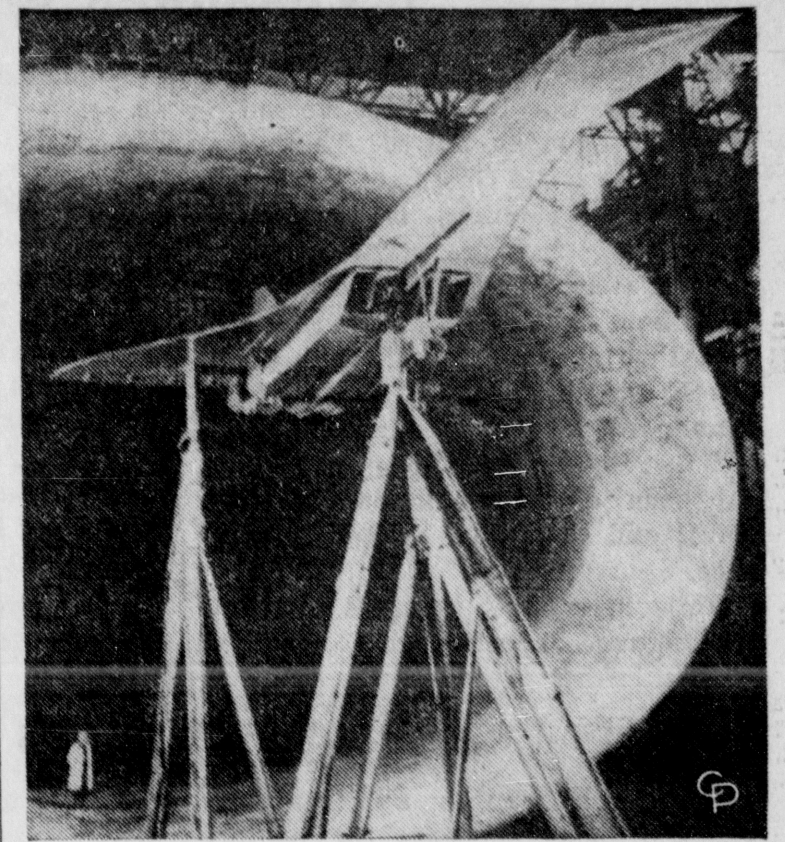

"more humanly," as they explained it to his campaign managers. But the subject refused to loosen his tie or peel off his jacket.

Like choosing basic solid grays or blues with medium lapels, cuffed trousers, slimmer than Johnson's, Nixon presents a stable, upper middle class image, one he has not departed from in his rise in Republican ranks.

"I wish I could say he is with it," sighed a spokesman for the American Institute of Men's and Boywear. "All I can say is he dresses correctly for statesmanship."

Many leaders in the men's wear industry are hopeful that relaxing in Key Biscayne will thaw out Nixon's inhibitions about sportswear, much as Key West put Truman in the mood for floral sports shirts.

Nevertheless, the fashion industry views the Nixon administration as a return to formality—good for the traditionalists, but a real challenge to those who would like to see the peacock revolution culminating in glorious feathers for the president.

Santa and the Hippies

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Edgar sends Ding Dong To Santa Land where Mrs. Claus prepares to feed him all the things she thinks a hippie would like to eat.

CHAPTER 6 DING DONG TRICKS SANTA

DING DONG tried to eat the pizzas and chocolate pies that Mrs. Claus laid out for him on the kitchen table. The more he tried the greener he got.

"Oh, my!" clucked Mrs. Claus. "You don't look well at all!"

She dumped a teaspoonful of green medicine into a glass of water. "Drink that quick!" she ordered. Before Ding Dong knew what he was about he'd swallowed the dose.

Immediately he felt better. "Hippies need to be taken care of same as anyone else though they may not think so themselves," grumbled Mrs. Claus.

Ding Dong saw to his horror that she was fetching a large washtub from under the kitchen sink.

"Oh, no!" he thought. "Not a bath!" What would his friends in Hippieville say to that? He leaped to his feet and charged out the kitchen door before Mrs. Claus could turn from the sink.

He ran down to the fields where Santa's reindeer were being fed by a crew of elves. The deer were friendly and full of life.

"Can they really fly?" asked Ding Dong.

"Try one and see," said an elf.

He boosted Ding Dong onto a reindeer's back. The deer sprang off the ground and soared into the sky.

Ding Dong felt as though he were riding the wind. He had never felt so free and happy. When the ride was over he took the reindeer back to the barn. He rubbed him down with towels and covered him with blankets so he wouldn't catch cold and not be able to ride on Christmas Eve.

Then he remembered that no reindeer would fly on Christmas because Santa would be a prisoner in Hippieville and he himself would be the one to capture Santa.

He felt badly about the whole thing. But what could he do now? The hippies were counting on him.

He wondered over to the toy shops where the elves were feverishly working on the toys children had asked for Christmas.

"Can't stop a minute," apologized an elf. "If we do, some child's order won't be filled."

Ding Dong felt worse than ever. Was it wrong to take Christmas away from everyone just because the hippies wanted to do as they pleased? Ding

"I can't stop a minute," apologized an elf.

Ding Dong decided he wouldn't capture Santa after all.

Just then Santa came into the shop. "I've finished my letters. Now what can I do for you?"

"Nothing," muttered Ding Dong.

"What! You came all this way to ask for nothing?"

"I've changed my mind," said Ding Dong, shamefaced.

"That's too bad," said Santa.

RUFFLES circle the top and bottom of this two-piece from the John Meyer collection shown in New York.

"I'd like to help you if I could."

Ding Dong thought, "If the hippies could see that Santa isn't really a 'square' they'd feel differently about things."

So Ding Dong made up a big story. He told Santa that one of the boys in Hippieville had fallen into a well and could not get out.

"We thought you could come and save him," said Ding Dong, not daring to look Santa in the eye.

"Of course I'll come," exclaimed Santa. "I shouldn't take the time because there's so much work to be done. But a boy in trouble comes first. We'll go at once."

He hurried Ding Dong off to a tiny airplane standing behind the shop. Santa climbed into the cockpit. Ding Dong squeezed in beside him and they zoomed off to Hippieville.

A Language Whiz

One would expect translators employed by the UN to be versed in several languages, but 66? That's how many 53-year-old Georges Schmidt can speak, not counting a number of dialects.

Schmidt's interest in languages began when he was 10 years old and by high school he had whizzed through Latin, Greek, English, Italian and German, winning a national championship in Latin. Schmidt was born in France, but soon developed a penchant for travel and so far has visited 83 countries.

While in college, Schmidt added to his language expertise with knowledge of Spanish, Russian, Chinese, Arabic, Turkish, Persian, Urdu, Malay, Japanese, Czech, Polish, Serbo-Croat and Hungarian.

"I have made a hobby of linguistics," Schmidt says, "because I am interested in people. The best way to study people is to learn the tongue they speak."

What is the most difficult language in the world to learn? "I would say Japanese," says Schmidt, "unless of course you first learned Chinese. Both languages have about 8,000 characters, a different character for every word."

Such a man could have an interesting time just talking to himself.

Spoiled Kids

One of the strangest court cases in recent decades concerns the healthy 44-year-old Montreal man who claims his millionaire father should support him because he cannot find work.

Recently the young man won $700 monthly support from his father on the grounds that a civil code provision regarding the obligation of parents to maintain their children in need specifies no age limit.

An appeals court overturned the decision, and took the father off the hook.

This was a case with equal elements of comedy and tragedy. It was funny because of the age of the "child." It was sad because it pointed up a tragic fact of life: many sons and daughters are so spoiled by their parents that they are completely unequipped to face life on the terms that most others are forced to face it.

Keep The Pressure On

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The young, so I deduce from the mail, are going to give Richard Nixon his chance as President. But they are going to watch him closely. Says one of them, "do you really believe that Nixon will abolish the draft? I doubt that he will do anything except respond to pressure."

Actually, in the young man's doubt there is all the hope in the world. For the pressure will be there, and it will be good to have a man in the White House who is willing to consider the forces that are quarreling for possession of the mind and heart of the nation. If the young want to get rid of the draft once the Vietnamese War is under control, it is up to them to make Nixon redeem his promise to them.

The anti-draft movement suffers from the misguided behavior of the likes of the Reverend William Sloane Coffin and Dr. Benjamin Spock, who think they can persuade people to change the law by pushing protest into extra-legal channels. Nevertheless, in spite of the fact that the anti-draft movement has a bad name in patriotic circles simply because of the draft card burnings, it has a most impressive non-partisan or bipartisan support. If the Students for a Democratic Society on the Left want to get rid of the draft, so do the Young Americans for Freedom on the Right. Ronald Reagan and Barry Goldwater are poles apart from Adlai Stevenson and J. Kenneth Galbraith on most philosophic matters, yet they all agree in opposing the draft.

Says Barry Goldwater: "The most fundamental right of man is the right to his life. The use of force against that right—as in the draft law—is clearly wrong. I would also be wrong to assume that free men have to be forced to fight for their country."

Said the late Adlai Stevenson: "Every young man knows the money that could be saved, the new efficiency that could result from a volunteer system which calls on young men not to endure two years in service because they have to, but to choose it for a longer period because it offers advantages that seem to them appealing."

The actual financial cost of the draft is largely hidden from public view because it is borne silently by the draftees themselves. But it should be apparent to anybody on reflection that the male members of a whole generation, both the young men who are impressed into the army and the ones who because of uncertain status are unable to get congenial jobs before their mid-twenties, are compelled to sacrifice the difference between basic military pay and the higher sums they might earn in steady civilian careers.

To dramatize the wastefulness caused by the draft, the Young Americans for Freedom point out that if Cassius Clay had been able to continue his pugilistic career, his annual income tax would be enough to train and equip an entire company. The cost of maintaining four thousand draft boards is terrific. And there is a vast wastefulness in the use of conscript to do the sort of military jobs, estimated as eighty percent of our military effort, that could be filled by civilians who would not have to be replaced every two years.

The late Senator Robert Taft, as good a conservative as you could find, was against the draft; he called it "far more typical of totalitarian nations than of democratic nations." His wife Martha, who always came to the point without quibbling, said the draft was unconstitutional, an infringement of the amendment that abolished "involuntary servitude." Nobody could possibly confuse the Tafts with hippies.

With Barry Goldwater back in the Senate, the young may be sure that pressure will be kept on Richard Nixon to fulfill his promise about turning to a voluntary army. The draft will not be abolished before the South Vietnamese have taken over the defense of their own country. But its days are numbered provided the young of the U.S. remain sufficiently aware of their needs to keep prodding the new Administration.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

EARLY IN HIS CAREER, Fred Allen played eight straight weeks in the middle of winter in the icy stretches of Western Canada and came back almost frozen to death. "One day in Manitoba," he recalled, teeth chattering, "we played five shows—and the high of the day was sixteen degrees below zero." "How did they get the customers to clear out after each show?" he was asked. "Easy," Allen growled. "They just opened the back doors and let the wolves run through."

Disillusioning comment from "The French," by Francois Nourissier: "Let it be understood, once and for all, that, except in the most expensive restaurants, the French are completely ignorant of the art of grilling a piece of beef, and that under the label of 'Beaujolais,' 20 million Frenchmen are served daily a harsh bluish liquid which has nothing of Beaujolais about it but the name, and nothing in common with wine except its appearance."

OVERHEARD: Wife (explaining to her husband how she wrecked the car): "The sign said 'Stop, Look, and Listen' and while I was doing it the freight train hit me." Employer: "I really would like to pay you what you're worth, Crothers, but that minimum wage law has teeth in it." Incurable Girl Watcher: "Oh, what is so bare as a dame in June?"

At the Authors' League: "The movie they made from my last book has given me a great idea for my next one."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am burdened beyond endurance by head noises. I find that I cannot block them out before I go to sleep and even believe that they wake me during the night. I have been told by my doctor that at the age of eighty-six this is not unusual. I know I'm not getting any younger, but I am afraid the noises may be the beginning of deafness or a stroke. I will appreciate it deeply if you were to discuss this in a future article.

Mrs. E.A.E., Ohio
Dear Mrs. E.: I once made the mistake of saying to a patient who complained bitterly of head noises, "You must remember you're not getting any younger." I deserved what my lovely patient said to me with great wisdom. She said, "Doctor, my problem is not that I am not growing any younger, I just want to be sure that I will continue to grow older." Since then, I have never used that phrase to any of my patients even those who attain the venerable age of one hundred.

Head noises, known as tinnitus, are almost always a greater annoyance than a threat to health. Sometimes they sound like a whistle, steam, or a shrill high pitched bell. Occasionally, they are uninterrupted beats, while at other times they are continuous.

Most patients, especially the elderly, notice that the noises get louder when it is very quiet or when they are very fatigued and particularly, if they are emotionally upset. Their greatest fear is that the noises may mean the beginning of a stroke, deafness, or a brain tumor. In almost all instances this fear is false.

In your case the likelihood is that as the blood vessels become narrower due to arteriosclerosis, the blood rushes through the blood vessels and by hitting the side wall causes the noises.

You will find that you may be able to block out the noises by listening to the radio before falling asleep. With automatic cut-offs, the radio can be set to discontinue once you have fallen asleep. I am certain that you are not awakened by the noise. Rather do I believe that when you turn during your sleep or awaken for a moment, as we all do, you then become aware of the noise. At that time of the night it is usually so quiet that the noise may become more pronounced. When once it is definitely established that there is no real troublesome cause for the noise, assurance and reassurance is the best remedy. There are some drugs known as vasodilators which are said to open blood vessels and thus alleviate the head noises. My experience with them, has not been gratifying.

It has been my experience that when I present to a patient the fact that the tinnitus will not lead to major trouble and that the noises will not threaten their health, patients are understanding and learn to accept this nuisance and live with it.

When very high blood pressure is a responsible cause for tinnitus, the condition can be helped with some of the newer drugs that reduce the pressure. Noises associated with chronic infection of the ears or changes in the jaw joint due to bad bite, may respond to the treatment of these conditions. You can be certain that your own physician knows all about the safe modern drugs that can be tried for head noises. No one is the private possessor of any special secret information to treat this condition. Follow your own doctor's advice and be comforted by the fact that noises sometimes disappear slowly of their own accord, especially with the support of assurance and encouragement.

Soviets Expand Atlantic Fleet

LONDON (AP) — The commander of U.S. naval forces in Europe said Wednesday night that Soviet warships have "begun to operate on a regular and continuous basis in the northeastern Atlantic and the Norwegian Sea."

Adm. W.F.A. Wendt told the English-speaking Union the buildup is similar to the Soviet naval expansion into the Mediterranean in the past two years. Wendt urged British-American cooperation to meet the challenge on the seas which Britain and the United States once controlled. He said the Soviets are building submarines and surface ships at a wartime production rate and now have a fleet of 350 submarines, the largest in the world. About 50 of the subs are nuclear-powered, he said.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sock it to me" will probably go down as the catch phrase of the year for 1968 and it's likely that the small investor on Wall Street feels as though the phrase was coined for him. It's not because of any drop in the Dow Jones average, but because of his having slipped from a second class citizen on the street to a newly formed third class condition.

The small investor up until today was always considered to be the one who bought in odd lots—less than 100 shares at a time. Wall Streeters could always tell what the "little guys" were doing by watching the odd lot movement.

He paid an extra charge a share over and above the normal commission when he bought stock. The theory apparently was that his order didn't generate enough commission to cover the cost of the brokerage firm's efforts.

The small investor was accustomed to being a second class citizen. He understood his position in relation to the big buyers. But, as of today he's third class.

Wall Street created a new class today—the over 1,000 class. These are the buyers who get a reduction of about 20 percent in the commission they pay if they buy 1,000 shares or more at a time. The commission reduction came about through pressure by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The small investor now looks up to the man who can buy several hundred shares at a time while that man looks up to the person who can buy 1,000 or more shares and thus realize a considerable saving in the commission he pays.

This year has had other hard blows for the small investor. Some brokerage houses, flooded with more business than they have been able to handle, have refused to open accounts for small investors. Some have refused to handle orders involving less than $1,000 or $2,000 worth of business. One brokerage firm discharged 200 securities salesmen to reduce its volume of business. The salesmen were the "lost producing account executives."

And the small investor has watched this year as new issues hit the market, zoomed in price, and made quick profits for those fortunate enough to have acquired a few shares. Brokers have not been able to satisfy all their customers because of the shortage of new issues compared to the demand. Small investors have been lucky to get a few shares of a new offering every now and then.

The small investors this year also read of charges that so-called insiders were getting information about companies' financial conditions before it was available to him, enabling the big boys to make moves the small investor could only wonder about.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "We cannot live in our time with small windows," said Renee Theobald. "We must open them more—feel the possibilities and challenges of life more, and express them more."

At 42 the beautiful and exciting Parisian artist, well known both in this country and in Europe, has been doubly successful in opening the "windows on walls" of her own life.

Her paintings, notable for vivid coloring and optimism, have drawn warm praise from some noted critics for their "vibrant touch" and the "zest and joy" they demonstrate. She has had 25 one-man shows. Twenty of her paintings were snapped up by collectors during a recent two-week exhibition at the Emile Walter Galleries here.

As wife and mother, Mme. Theobald has been equally successful. She is married to Dubois de Montreynaud, a French statistician and insurance company official, and they have five daughters, ranging in age from 10 to 18 years.

She has found no conflict in pursuing two careers. Mornings and evenings are given to her family, afternoons are spent at her easel.

Trained at the Sorbonne and Beaux-Arts de Paris, she resumed painting after the birth of her fourth daughter.

"The children came so quickly that I felt I had to open another window in my own world to keep from being trapped by diapers and baby care," she recalled, smiling.

"I felt I had to show I could do something else, too. It was a kind of sport to prove I was not a prisoner of occasion and recurrence."

"I feel my husband and children are proud of my painting. Each of us has his own intellectual interests—as well as our whole life together. I feel it important that every family be enriched by the way each member of it reaches his own inside harmony."

Mme. Theobald, who is brown-eyed and chestnut-haired, as a girl wanted to be an aviatrix because she had a yearning to fly.

"Now I try to fly by my painting," she said. "But it is not a way to escape. It is a way to assume one's self more, to live in a stronger way."

"Art is a means to seize or grasp more of life, and then to communicate to others what you see and feel. That, I believe, is what life is for—to find happiness yourself and then try to help give it to others."

She is an impressionist painter, and has little interest in turning out the kind of abstract or geometric pictures which leave many a viewer uncertain whether they are hung rightside up or not.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff quietly investigated the report that a nudist colony existed in the northern part of the county.

A parade heralded the home talent show for the benefit of needy Pickaway County school children with all members of the cast dressed in stage costumes. The show was staged in Circleville, Ashville and New Holland with a special matinee for school children at the Grand Theater.

The new intramural system was introduced in high school athletics at Circleville.

Members of the Circleville fire department would again paint and repair discarded toys to be distributed to needy children of the city on the night before Christmas. They were assisted by members of Boy Scout Troops 107 and 158.

$47,963 was paid to 999 Pickaway County farmers who participated in the government's wheat adjustment program. The Washington D. C. checks were distributed through the Pickaway County Farm Bureau and was the second highest amount in Ohio.

Mader and Ebert opened their new chapel to the public.

The temperature reached its lowest mark of the winter on Dec. 11, when the thermometer registered 10 degrees.

Pickaway County's quota in CWA was increased to 500 persons, according to A. J. Dunkel, Civil Works administrator.

A deer, obtained by Roy Beatty and Ed Helwagen was on display in the window of Charles Beck meat market.

Three local high school students were selected to play for the 150 member All-State orchestra at Memorial Hall in Columbus. They were William Ashbrook, drums; Dick Plum, slide trombone; and Vera Zanglein, first violin.

An effort to obtain part of the old High St. cemetery for a public playground was started by Rotary Club.

John E. Stout, a native of Washington Twp. and junior at Circleville High School for the past 19 years, died at his home on S. Court St. following a heart attack. He was 72 years old.

Muhlenberg Twp. largest landowner, W. Scott Carpenter, died at the age of 84.

A Language Whiz

One would expect translators employed by the UN to be versed in several languages, but 66? That's how many 53-year-old Georges Schmidt can speak, not counting a number of dialects.

Schmidt's interest in languages began when he was 10 years old and by high school he had whizzed through Latin, Greek, English, Italian and German, winning a national championship in Latin. Schmidt was born in France, but soon developed a penchant for travel and so far has visited 83 countries.

While in college, Schmidt added to his language expertise with knowledge of Spanish, Russian, Chinese, Arabic, Turkish, Persian, Urdu, Malay, Japanese, Czech, Polish, Serbo-Croat and Hungarian.

"I have made a hobby of linguistics," Schmidt says, "because I am interested in people. The best way to study people is to learn the tongue they speak."

What is the most difficult language in the world to learn? "I would say Japanese," says Schmidt, "unless of course you first learned Chinese. Both languages have about 8,000 characters, a different character for every word."

Such a man could have an interesting time just talking to himself.

Spoiled Kids

One of the strangest court cases in recent decades concerns the healthy 44-year-old Montreal man who claims his millionaire father should support him because he cannot find work.

Recently the young man won $700 monthly support from his father on the grounds that a civil code provision regarding the obligation of parents to maintain their children in need specifies no age limit.

An appeals court overturned the decision, and took the father off the hook.

This was a case with equal elements of comedy and tragedy. It was funny because of the age of the "child." It was sad because it pointed up a tragic fact of life: many sons and daughters are so spoiled by their parents that they are completely unequipped to face life on the terms that most others are forced to face it.

Keep The Pressure On

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
The young, so I deduce from the mail, are going to give Richard Nixon his chance as President. But they are going to watch him closely. Says one of them, "do you really believe that Nixon will abolish the draft? I doubt that he will do anything except respond to pressure."

Actually, in the young man's doubt there is all the hope in the world. For the pressure will be there, and it will be good to have a man in the White House who is willing to consider the forces that are quarreling for possession of the mind and heart of the nation. If the young want to get rid of the draft once the Vietnamese War is under control, it is up to them to make Nixon redeem his promise to them.

The anti-draft movement suffers from the misguided behavior of the likes of the Reverend William Sloane Coffin and Dr. Benjamin Spock, who think they can persuade people to change the law by pushing protests into extra-legal channels. Nevertheless, in spite of the fact that the anti-draft movement has a bad name in patriotic circles simply because of the draft card burnings, it has a most impressive non-partisan or bipartisan support. If the Students for a Democratic Society on the Left want to get rid of the draft, so do the Young Americans for Freedom on the Right. Ronald Reagan and Barry Goldwater are poles apart from Adlai Stevenson and J. Kenneth Galbraith on most philosophic matters, yet they all agree in opposing the draft.

Says Barry Goldwater: "The most fundamental right of man is the right to his life. The use of force against that right—as in the draft law—is clearly wrong. I would also be wrong to assume that free men have to be forced to fight for their country."

Said the late Adlai Stevenson: "Every young man knows the money that could be saved, the new efficiency that could result from a volunteer system which calls on young men not to endure two years in service because they have to, but to choose it for a longer period because it offers advantages that seem to them appealing."

The actual financial cost of the draft is largely hidden from public view because it is borne silently by the draftees themselves. But it should be apparent to anybody on reflection that the male members of a whole generation, both the young men who are impressed into the army and the ones who because of uncertain status are unable to get congenial jobs before their mid-twenties, are compelled to sacrifice the difference between basic military pay and the higher sums they might earn in steady civilian careers.

To dramatize the wastefulness caused by the draft, the Young Americans for Freedom point out that if Cassius Clay had been able to continue his pugilistic career, his annual income tax would be enough to train and equip an entire company. The cost of maintaining four thousand draft boards is terrific. And there is a vast wastefulness in the use of conscript to do the sort of military jobs, estimated as eighty percent of our military effort, that could be filled by civilians who would not have to be replaced every two years.

The late Senator Robert Taft, as good a conservative as you could find, was against the draft; he called it "far more typical of totalitarian nations than of democratic nations."

His wife Martha, who always came to the point without quibbling, said the draft was unconstitutional, an infringement of the amendment that abolished "involuntary servitude." Nobody could possibly confuse the Tafts with hippies. With Barry Goldwater back in the Senate, the young may be sure that pressure will be kept on Richard Nixon to fulfill his promise about turning to a voluntary army. The draft will not be abolished before the South Vietnamese have taken over the defense of their own country. But its days are numbered provided the young of the U.S. remain sufficiently aware of their needs to keep prodding the new Administration.

EARLY IN HIS CAREER, Fred Allen played eight straight weeks in the middle of winter in the icy stretches of Western Canada and came back almost frozen to death. "One day in Manitoba," he recalled, teeth chattering, "we played five shows—and the high of the day was sixteen degrees below zero." "How did they get the customers to clear out after each show?" he was asked. "Easy," Allen growled. "They just opened the back doors and let the wolves run through."

Disillusioning comment from "The French," by Francois Nourissier: "Let it be understood, once and for all, that, except in the most expensive restaurants, the French are completely ignorant of the art of grilling a piece of beef, and that under the label of 'Beaujolais,' 20 million Frenchmen are served daily a harsh bluish liquid which has nothing of Beaujolais about it but the name, and nothing in common with wine except its appearance."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am burdened beyond endurance by head noises. I find that I cannot block them out before I go to sleep and even believe that they wake me, during the night. I have been told by my doctor that at the age of eighty-six this is not unusual. I know I'm not getting any younger, but I am afraid the noises may be the beginning of deafness or a stroke. I will appreciate it deeply if you were to discuss this in a future article.

Mrs. E.A.E., Ohio
Dear Mrs. E.: I once made the mistake of saying to a patient who complained bitterly of head noises, "You must remember you're not getting any younger." I deserved what my lovely patient said to me with great wisdom. She said, "Doctor, my problem is not that I am not growing any younger, I just want to be sure that I will continue to grow older." Since then, I have never used that phrase to any of my patients even those who attain the venerable age of one hundred.

Head noises, known as tinnitus, are almost always a greater annoyance than a threat to health. Sometimes they sound like a whistle, steam, or a shrill high pitched bell. Occasionally, they are uninterrupted beats, while at other times they are continuous.

Most patients, especially the elderly, notice that the noises get louder when it is very quiet or when they are very fatigued and particularly, if they are emotionally upset. Their greatest fear is that the noises may mean the beginning of a stroke, deafness, or a brain tumor. In almost all instances this fear is false.

In your case the likelihood is that as the blood vessels become narrower due to arteriosclerosis, the blood rushes through the blood vessels and by hitting the side wall causes the noises.

You will find that you may be able to block out the noises by listening to the radio before falling asleep. With automatic cut-offs, the radio can be set to discontinue once you have fallen asleep. I am certain that you are not awakened by the noise. Rather do I believe that when you turn during your sleep or awaken for a moment, as we all do, you then become aware of the noise. At that time of the night it is usually so quiet that the noise may become more pronounced. When once it is definitely established that there is no real troublesome cause for the noise, assurance and reassurance is the best remedy. There are some drugs known as vasodilators which are said to open blood vessels and thus alleviate the head noises. My experience with them, has not been gratifying.

It has been my experience that when I present to a patient the fact that the tinnitus will not lead to major trouble and that the noises will not threaten their health, patients are understanding and learn to accept this nuisance and live with it.

When very high blood pressure is a responsible cause for tinnitus, the condition can be helped with some of the newer drugs that reduce the pressure. Noises associated with chronic infection of the ears or changes in the jaw joint due to bad bite, may respond to the treatment of these conditions. You can be certain that your own physician knows all about the safe modern drugs that can be tried for head noises. No one is the private possessor of any special secret information to treat this condition. Follow your own doctor's advice and be comforted by the fact that noises sometimes disappear slowly of their own accord, especially with the support of assurance and encouragement.

Soviets Expand Atlantic Fleet

LONDON (AP) — The commander of U.S. naval forces in Europe said Wednesday night that Soviet warships have begun to operate on a regular and continuous basis in the northeastern Atlantic and the Norwegian Sea.

Adm. W.F.A. Wendt told the English-speaking Union the buildup is similar to the Soviet naval expansion into the Mediterranean in the past two years. Wendt urged British-American cooperation to meet the challenge on the seas which Britain and the United States once controlled. He said the Soviets are building submarines and surface ships at a wartime production rate and now have a fleet of 350 submarines, the largest in the world. About 50 of the subs are nuclear-powered, he said.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — "Suck it to me" will probably go down as the catch phrase of the year for 1968 and it's likely that the small investor on Wall Street feels as though the phrase was coined for him. It's not because of any drop in the Dow Jones average, but because of his having slipped from a second class citizen on the street to a newly formed third class condition.

The small investor up until today was always considered to be the one who bought in odd lots—less than 100 shares at a time. Wall Streeters could always tell what the "little guys" were doing by watching the odd lot movement.

He paid an extra charge a share over and above the normal commission when he bought stock. The theory apparently was that his order didn't generate enough commission to cover the cost of the brokerage firm's efforts.

The small investor was accustomed to being a second class citizen. He understood his position in relation to the big buyers. But, as of today he's third class.

Wall Street created a new class today—the over 1,000 class. These are the buyers who get a reduction of about 20 percent in the commission they pay if they buy 1,000 shares or more at a time. The commission reduction came about through pressure by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The small investor now looks up to the man who can buy several hundred shares at a time while that man looks up to the person who can buy 1,000 or more shares and thus realize a considerable saving in the commission he pays.

This year has had other hard blows for the small investor. Some brokerage houses, flooded with more business than they have been able to handle, have refused to open accounts for small investors. Some have refused to handle orders involving less than $1,000 or $2,000 worth of business. One brokerage firm discharged 200 securities salesmen to reduce its volume of business. The salesmen were the "loosest producing account executives."

And the small investor has watched this year as new issues hit the market, zoomed in price, and made quick profits for those fortunate enough to have acquired a few shares. Brokers have not been able to satisfy all their customers because of the shortage of new issues compared to the demand. Small investors have been lucky to get a few shares of a new offering every now and then.

The small investors this year also read of charges that so-called insiders were getting information about companies' financial conditions before it was available to him, enabling the big boys to make moves the small investor could only wonder about.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "We cannot live in our time with small windows," said Renee Theobald. "We must open them more—feel the possibilities and challenges of life more, and express them more."

At 42 the beautiful and exciting Parisian artist, well known both in this country and in Europe, has been doubly successful in opening the "windows on walls" of her own life.

Her paintings, notable for vivid coloring and optimism, have drawn warm praise from some noted critics for their "vibrant touch" and the "zest and joy" they demonstrate. She has had 25 one-man shows. Twenty of her paintings were snapped up by collectors during a recent two-week exhibition at the Emile Walter Galleries here.

As wife and mother, Mme. Theobald has been equally successful. She is married to Dubois de Montreynaud, a French statistician and insurance company official, and they have five daughters, ranging in age from 10 to 18 years.

She has found no conflict in pursuing two careers. Mornings and evenings are given to her family, afternoons are spent at her easel.

Trained at the Sorbonne and Beaux-Arts de Paris, she resumed painting after the birth of her fourth daughter.

"The children came so quickly that I felt I had to open another window in my own world to keep from being trapped by diapers and baby care," she recalled, smiling.

"I felt I had to show I could do something else, too. It was a kind of sport to prove I was not a prisoner of occasion and recurrence."

"I feel my husband and children are proud of my painting. Each of us has his own intellectual interests—as well as our whole life together. I feel it important that every family be enriched by the way each member of it reaches his own inside harmony."

Mme. Theobald, who is brown-eyed and chestnut-haired, as a girl wanted to be an aviatrix because she had a yearning to fly.

"Now I try to fly by my painting," she said. "But it is not a way to escape. It is a way to assume one's self more, to live in a stronger way."

"Art is a means to seize or grasp more of life, and then to communicate to others what you see and feel. That, I believe, is what life is for—to find happiness yourself and then try to help give it to others."

She is an impressionist painter, and has little interest in turning out the kind of abstract or geometric pictures which leave many a viewer uncertain whether they are hung rightside up or not.

Dear Abby: How To Explain 'Heathen' Husband

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How does one answer the church community as to why one's husband does not attend church with his family?

I have been married for almost 10 years and have two school-aged children who attend church with me, but their father does not. I have tried to persuade him to go to church—if only to set a good example for our children, but no amount of coaxing will move him.

I am not happy with the idea that my husband is a heathen, but there is nothing I can do about it. So what do I tell those who ask, "Why doesn't your husband go to church with you?"

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Those who would ask such a question don't deserve an answer. If you don't want to tell them it's none of their business—which it's not, inquire, "Why do you ask?" If that doesn't stop them, follow thru with, "Why don't you ask my husband?"

DEAR ABBY: Who said "LUCKY IN CARDS, UNLUCKY IN LOVE?"

"ING"

DEAR "ING": Probably some sorehead who always loses at cards.

DEAR ABBY: I am a career woman in my thirties, have an assured steady income and am desperately in love with a married man in his fifties. His wife has been on the fence about giving him a divorce for the past 5 years, knowing that her husband has been more mine than hers. She has used one excuse after another to hold him. There is only one child left at home now—a boy who will soon be of college age. I offered to pay for the divorce, pay any alimony agreed upon, or even a lump sum settlement if she preferred. I even agreed to pay for the boy's college education. She turned it all down!

Abby, what is wrong with a stubborn, prideless, unloved creature who would enslave a man with a piece of paper?

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Maybe she loves him anyway, and is also "waiting" — for the day he regains his senses.

DEAR ABBY: I am an AVID ABBY fan who sympathizes with downtrodden, laughs with the ridiculous, and weeps for the pathetic, but this time I am boiling!

I have a message for "FLAT FROM ATLANTA." As one of the thousands of women who have had one or both breasts removed because of cancer, I would like to offer her a trade. I will trade her my scars and empty chest for her "sag" any day. She should be grateful she isn't qualified to sign her name "LOP-SIDED LIZ"—as I could. Please sign me...

Corwin Christmas Program Slated

The teachers and students of Corwin Elementary School extend an invitation to interested persons to attend the Christmas program to be held 7:30 p.m. Dec. 16.

The program, which consists of many new carols and songs of the holiday season, is entitled "A Christmas Card for You."

The students will offer to all a greeting card in the form of a song, all this centered around narratives by Evelyn Howard, Brian Hulse and Karen Ridley.

A portion of the song list is: "Holiday Dance," "Shepherds on the Hillside," "What Child Is This?" and "Song of the Shepherds."

Not Actionable

BOSTON (AP) — Edgar A. Collis, who testified that his wife beat him with an angle iron while his son hit him with a snow shovel and his daughter struck him with a broom, lost his bid for a divorce.

The State Supreme Court ruled Thursday that Collis, of Montague, had not proved he suffered cruel and abusive treatment as he had charged.

Collis had appealed the decision of Probate Court Judge Samuel T. Tisdale, who said the episode was a "typical husband and wife brawl."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

How To Explain 'Heathen' Husband

DEAR ABBY: How does one answer the church community as to why one's husband does not attend church with his family?

I have been married for almost 10 years and have two school-aged children who attend church with me, but their father does not. I have tried to persuade him to go to church — if only to set a good example for our children, but no amount of coaxing will move him.

I am not happy with the idea that my husband is a heathen, but there is nothing I can do about it. So what do I tell those who ask, "Why doesn't your husband go to church with you?"

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Those who would ask such a question don't deserve an answer. If you don't want to tell them it's none of their business—which it's not, inquire, "Why do you ask?" If that doesn't stop them, follow thru with, "Why don't you ask my husband?"

DEAR ABBY: Who said "LUCKY IN CARDS, UNLUCKY IN LOVE?"

"ING"

DEAR "ING": Probably some sorehead who always loses at cards.

DEAR ABBY: I am a career woman in my thirties, have an assured steady income and am desperately in love with a married man in his fifties. His wife has been on the fence about giving him a divorce for the past 5 years, knowing that her husband has been more mine than hers. She has used one excuse after another to hold him. There is only one child left at home now—a boy who will soon be of college age. I offered to pay for the divorce, pay any alimony agreed upon, or even a lump sum settlement if she preferred. I even agreed to pay for the boy's college education. She turned it all down!

Abby, what is wrong with a stubborn, prideless, unloved creature who would enslave a man with a piece of paper?

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Maybe she loves him anyway, and is also "waiting" — for the day he regains his senses.

DEAR ABBY: I am an AVID ABBY fan who sympathizes with downtrodden, laughs with the ridiculous, and weeps with the pathetic, but this time I am boiling!

I have a message for "FLAT FROM ATLANTA." As one of the thousands of women who have had one or both breasts removed because of cancer, I would like to offer her a trade. I will trade her my scars and empty chest for her "sag" any day. She should be grateful she isn't qualified to sign her name "LOP-SIDED LIZ"—as I could. Please sign me...

Novel Idea Cooked Up For A Present Problem

By ELEANOR ROSS
Got your gift list in hand? Many of us are doing our shopping with a pretty good notion of how much we want to spend for each person on our list. Of course, despite all the good intentions, we're apt to run into the red before the list is finished. But help is at hand with the advent of little hand-made gifts for the "small remembrance" names on the list — people who must not be overlooked, yet would feel an extravagant gift would be out of place. These are just the ones who would appreciate a little something that is hand made.

Perfectly Fitting
Ideal for the purpose are ceramic-like Christmas tree ornaments that convert to necklace pendants after the tree is gone. The making is fun and easy. Children find giving these a nice way to remember teachers and classmates.
Here's how to make the ornaments: Start off by cooking up a clay out of two household staples... cornstarch, which is used to make puddings and to thicken gravies; and baking soda, which is used for everything from baking to cleaning — and even as a dentifrice. Mix together well in a saucepan 2 cups baking soda (one 1-pound package) and 1 cup cornstarch. Add 1 1/4 cups cold water. Mix until smooth. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cook a minute longer or until mixture resembles mashed potatoes. Transfer to a plate, cover with a damp cloth and when cool enough to handle, knead a little as you would dough. Now roll clay out on waxed paper to 1/4-inch thickness.
Cut with cookie cutter into stars, circles, triangles or whatever. Insert tiny snip of twisted wire — the tip end of a hairpin is ideal — into one edge for attaching tree hanger

Italian Priest, Bishop In Duel

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Don Enzo Mazzi, rebel priest and hero to the Florentine poor, was in hiding today after being dismissed from his parish Thursday. But his parishioners held the key to the church and were setting up a revolution promotion center next door.
Two other Florentine priests expected expulsion from their duties in the bitter dispute between Don Mazzi and his working-class flock on one side and the archbishop of Florence on the other.

Guild 45 Sets Catering Plans During Session

Berger Hospital Guild 45 held its November meeting at Pickaway Arms with Mrs. Sharon Reese as hostess for the evening.

Mrs. Connie McGlone, chairman, presided over the business session. Suggestions were made concerning projects for next year. Plans were finalized for the guild to cater the Charity Ball on Dec. 13. Proceeds from the catering will be used for hospital needs.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the hostess to Mrs. Lou Stewart, Mrs. Connie McGlone, Mrs. Jennie Russell, Mrs. Mabel Owens, Mrs. Rosemary Hansen, Mrs. Verna O'Hara and Mrs. Linda Russell.

The December meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Rosemary Hansen, Route 2.

Easter Seal Unit Meets

Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children and Adults met recently at its headquarters, 108 Reber Ave. The session was opened with prayer by Mrs. E. F. Siniff.

Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood reported that approximately 8,000 pieces of mail were sent last year. The society is in the process of preparing the campaign for next year.

Refreshments were served to the 15 members present by Mrs. Rhea Steel and Mrs. Madeline Flowers.

The next meeting will be Jan. 7 at headquarters.

Guild 28 Slates Christmas Party

A Christmas party and gift exchange will be held by Berger Hospital Guild 28, 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Ned Harden 146 Park Place.

The priests were Don Sergio Cacioli, a pastor in one of Florence's poorest districts and a close associate of Don Mazzi and Don Paolo Gomiti, 28, Don Mazzi's assistant.
"It's my turn now," said Don Cacioli Thursday night. "I've been waiting for it for years. I knew it was coming as soon as Don Mazzi was fired."
Don Mazzi was hidden in a private house while his parishioners continued to control the church of Mary of the Graces in the Isolotto district.

College Plan Draws Fire Of Presidents

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The proposal by State Finance Director Howard Collier to eliminate subsidies for out-of-state college students is drawing sharp criticism from Ohio's university presidents.

The Rhodes administration will recommend the aid cutback to the Ohio General Assembly next month. The move is expected to save the state about $27 million annually but also force increases in out-of-state student fees an average of $400 to $500 per year.

It is the latter prospect that worries the university officials. More than 10 per cent of the students in Ohio's state universities are non-Ohiolans. The figure is 20 per cent at Ohio University and 25 per cent at Youngstown University. The administrators fear the out-of-state enrollment will fall drastically if the aid is cut off.

John D. Millett, chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents, says the alternative to the elimination of the subsidies for non-Ohio students is a big increase in fees for Ohio students.

"We're not closing the door on out-of-state students," Millett said, "we're simply saying that they'll have to carry their own freight."

State subsidies in the past had been awarded without regard to the student's home state. The subsidies range from $350 each year for a freshman or sophomore to $4,800 for a doctoral candidate.

The Rhodes administration has said the savings realized from the subsidy halt would go to disadvantaged Ohio students who want to attend college.

They scheduled meetings through Saturday night to decide what stand to take against the archbishop. In rooms adjoining the church parishioners were making posters and turning out mimeographed bulletins.
Don Mazzi had been their pastor 14 years. For the last 10 years he and his associates had been writing a children's catechism that made Cardinal Florit bristle and sent shock waves into the Vatican.

The just-published catechism depicts Christ as a revolutionary leading the poor against the privileged and wealthy. The cardinal censured the catechism and forbade his priests to use it. Don Mazzi said the cardinal told him: "Resign or I'll fire you." The priest made no move to resign, and on Thursday his dismissal was announced.

Pupils in two elementary schools walked out of classes in protest. They had their teacher's approval. Thousands of Don Mazzi's parishioners, including many cripples, marched in silence across the Arno and massed outside the cardinal's residence, waving placards demanding that he restore Don Mazzi to them.
The Vatican newspaper upheld the dismissal and called it a sad but predictable end to the episode. "Meetings, yes; discussion, yes," said L'Osservatore Romano. "But at a certain point one must recognize the rule of the legitimate pastor."

"No one contests the good intentions of this tenacious priest. But obedience to a bishop is always the boundary in every clerical or lay activity,"

Christmas Dinner Held By Aid Society

The basement of the Tarlton Lutheran Church was decorated in the Christmas theme for the Thursday evening meeting of the Aid Society. Red candles and greenery graced the tables for a covered-dish dinner. A decorated Christmas tree completed the scene for the appearance of Santa Claus to assist in exchanging of gifts by the 35 members present.

A motion was made to prepare boxes for the needy of the community at Christmas. The men of the society will be the entertainment committee for the month of January.

Officers for the coming year are Mrs. Wanda Hartman, president; Mrs. Viola Hartman, vice president; Mrs. Helen Strous, secretary - treasurer, and Mrs. May Swain, pianist.

Cancer Checkups Set For Monday

Italian Priest, Bishop In Duel

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Don Enzo Mazzi, rebel priest and hero to the Florentine poor, was in hiding today after being dismissed from his parish Thursday. But his parishioners held the key to the church and were setting up a revolution promotion center next door.

Two other Florentine priests expected expulsion from their duties in the bitter dispute between Don Mazzi and his working-class flock on one side and Ermenegildo Cardinal Florit, the archbishop of Florence on the other.

The priests were Don Sergio Cacioli, a pastor in one of Florence's poorest districts and a close associate of Don Mazzi and Don Paolo Gombi, 28, Don Mazzi's assistant.

"It's my turn now," said Don Cacioli Thursday night. "I've been waiting for it for years. I knew it was coming as soon as Don Mazzi was fired."

Don Mazzi was hidden in a private house while his parishioners continued to control the church of Mary of the Graces in the Isolotto district.

They scheduled meetings through Saturday night to decide what stand to take against the archbishop. In rooms adjoining the church parishioners were making posters and turning out mimeographed bulletins.

Don Mazzi had been their pastor 14 years. For the last 10 years he and his associates had been writing a children's catechism that made Cardinal Florit bristle and sent shock waves into the Vatican.

The just-published catechism depicts Christ as a revolutionary leading the poor against the privileged and wealthy. The cardinal censured the catechism and forbade his priests to use it.

Don Mazzi said the cardinal told him: "Resign or I'll fire you." The priest made no move to resign, and on Thursday his dismissal was announced.

Pupils in two elementary schools walked out of classes in protest. They had their teacher's approval. Thousands of Don Mazzi's parishioners, including many cripples, marched in silence across the Arno and massed outside the cardinal's residence, waving placards demanding that he restore Don Mazzi to them.

The Vatican newspaper upheld the dismissal and called it a sad but predictable end to the episode. "Meetings, yes; discussion, yes," said L'Osservatore Romano. "But at a certain point one must recognize the rule of the legitimate pastor."

"No one contests the good intentions of this tenacious priest. But obedience to a bishop is always the boundary in every clerical or lay activity,"

Guild 45 Sets Catering Plans During Session

Berger Hospital Guild 45 held its November meeting at Pickaway Arms with Mrs. Sharon Reese as hostess for the evening.

Mrs. Connie McGlone, chairman, presided over the business session. Suggestions were made concerning projects for next year. Plans were finalized for the guild to cater the Charity Ball on Dec. 13. Proceeds from the catering will be used for hospital needs.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the hostess to Mrs. Lou Stewart, Mrs. Connie McGlone, Mrs. Jennie Russell, Mrs. Mabel Owens, Mrs. Rosemary Hansen, Mrs. Verna O'Hara and Mrs. Linda Russell.

The December meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Rosemary Hansen, Route 2.

Easter Seal Unit Meets

Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children and Adults met recently at its headquarters, 108 Reber Ave. The session was opened with prayer by Mrs. E. F. Siniff.

Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood reported that approximately 8,000 pieces of mail were sent last year. The society is in the process of preparing the campaign for next year.

Refreshments were served to the 15 members present by Mrs. Rhea Steel and Mrs. Madeline Flowers.

The next meeting will be Jan. 7 at headquarters.

Guild 28 Slates Christmas Party

A Christmas party and gift exchange will be held by Berger Hospital Guild 28, 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Ned Harden 146 Park Place.

College Plan Draws Fire Of Presidents

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The proposal by State Finance Director Howard Collier to eliminate subsidies for out-of-state college students is drawing sharp criticism from Ohio's university president.

The Rhodes administration will recommend the aid cutback to the Ohio General Assembly next month. The move is expected to save the state about $27 million annually but also force increases in out-of-state student fees an average of $400 to $500 per year.

It is the latter prospect that worries the university officials. More than 10 per cent of the students in Ohio's state universities are non-Ohioids. The figure is 20 per cent at Ohio University and 25 per cent at Youngstown University. The administrators fear the out-of-state enrollment will fall drastically if the aid is cut off.

John D. Millett, chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents, says the alternative to the elimination of the subsidies for non-Ohio students is a big increase in fees for Ohio students.

"We're not closing the door on out-of-state students," Millett said, "we're simply saying that they'll have to carry their own freight."

State subsidies in the past had been awarded without regard to the student's home state. The subsidies range from $350 each year for a freshman or sophomore to $4,800 for a doctoral candidate.

The Rhodes administration has said the savings realized from the subsidy halt would go to disadvantaged Ohio students who want to attend college.

Fever In Economy, Chill In Congress Face Dick Nixon

Editors: The following is the fifth in a six-part series on the problems facing the incoming Republican administration. It deals with economics.

By STERLING GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fever in the economy and a probable chill in Congress are high on the list of hazards confronting Richard M. Nixon.

To cool off inflation, outgoing Democrats have tried to arrange a business slowdown. If it comes as expected in early 1969, it possibly could lapse into recession.

People will call it "the Nixon recession," just as they would have called it a "Humphrey recession" if the vice president had won. Regardless of party, the new president-elect will face some hard decisions. Even if the hesitation is minor many will urge him to spur business, avoid unemployment, loosen the federal purse strings, and let the 10 per cent income tax surcharge—which Nixon dislikes anyway—expire at midyear as scheduled.

As things stand now, he'd be damned if he did, lamed if he didn't. There is a most influential segment, including many of Nixon's richest backers in industry and banking, who consider that halting the wage-price spiral must have top domestic priority. They want the surtax extended and money kept tight.

Members of the prestige-laden Business Council, for instance, had "generally agreed" in October, that industry must "give the new administration the kind of economic and moral backing that will encourage them to stick with his (anti-inflationary) policy." Even at risk of some joblessness, a council spokesman said.

Otherwise, the Council's economists warn inflation will be rampaging again in a year, and might collapse into a "major recession" by 1970 or 1971—midway in Nixon's term.

Nixon must weigh the risks. He is committed to maintain full employment and growth as well as wage-price stability. If a 1969 recession really threatens, his advisers say, he will fight it with tax cut and more spending.

For stimulative purposes Nixon prefers tax cuts instead of spending. Letting the surtax expire—or killing it ahead of time—would be in obvious reaction.

An early battle with Congress over taxes would be bad trouble for the president-elect. He is the first president since Zachary Taylor in 1848 to enter office with the opposition in control of both houses. He needs to make friends, not foes, at the Capitol.

The conservative Democrats who have given Lyndon Johnson a hard time remain in control of both the tax-writing committees, Senate Finance and House Ways and Means. The House expected of Johnson a $6-billion budget cut as the price of a tax boost. It could demand Nixon pay a similar price for a tax cut.

But Nixon's first economic headache may be a serious overheating, not a slowdown. A tax cut then would be unthinkable, says one of his economic advisers.

"There is a very good possibility that taxes might have to be raised," Dr. Pierre A. Rinfret, New York economic consultant, told a London audience.

How could Nixon square that with his positive campaign pledge to let the surtax expire as scheduled June 30, "or at least ... reduce it significantly?"

Clearly the new president, needing room to wheel, deal and bargain if he hopes to develop a working majority in Congress, will have a limited area to maneuver in.

He cannot even count on liberal-lawmakers for support of tax reduction. They may take Vice President Humphrey's line that the surtax is needed to pay for welfare and educational programs.

A keystone of Nixon economic policy is "let private industry do it." He seeks tax incentives for private enterprise—about $7 billion worth of credits, deductions, rapid writeoffs and other benefits—to lessen the cost to the Treasury of bringing plans, jobs, housing, job-training into the slums. Similar devices would be used to foster education and abate air and water pollution.

Can Nixon sell this Republican plan to virtually the same Congress which has been battling it down for two years? Perhaps, but Capitol Hill observers agree it will take all the tactical skills and patience his admirers believe he possesses.

There is little Nixon can do, moreover, to satisfy those who want a quick cutback in spending. The spending schedule is virtually fixed at around $185 billion for fiscal 1969, ending June 30, and Johnson's 1970 budget, due just before Nixon takes office, may approach $200 billion.

Reduced outlays for space, beautification, public works, the supersonic air transport and other programs are expected—and probably will find a warm welcome in Congress.

But Nixon's budget-squeezing plans will be hampered by the dislike of Congress for special tax incentives—even as an alternative to spending—and by the demonstrated disinclination of the lawmakers to make any deep cuts in outlays designed to improve conditions in the turbulent big-city ghettos.

For some other key economic proposals of the president-elect, the probable Congressional reaction ranges from warm to indifferent or downright hostile. These include:

Tax reform — Nixon repeatedly has called for tax reforms. There's no indication Congress will be quicker to close loopholes at his behest than it was at Johnson's or John F. Kennedy's.

But Nixon could have something more drastic in mind. When he was vice president he endorsed a national sales tax.

More recently he has become interested in the "value-added tax" used by some European countries. It is a levy collected on products at every stage of fabrication. Each manufacturer would pay a flat rate on the sales value of his product, whether it be a finished or unfinished item, after deducting the costs of materials.

The idea, a radical one for most legislators, has been batted about in congressional hearings occasionally, without any sign that more earnest study might be given.

Balance of payment —

The president-elect has promised to "bring to an end self-defeating controls" on the foreign investments of Americans "at the earliest possible time."

Nixon might mean a return to some type of voluntary restraints. The other obvious alternative, a tax on foreign investment, would seem to be as distasteful as the present controls.

Trade —

Nixon has stated support of liberal trade and tariff policies and opposition import quotas. However, he has alarmed some of his business backers—those having a large stake in foreign trade—by some campaign remarks that had a protectionist flavor. He pledged help specifically to steel and textiles.

With apparently rising protectionist sentiment in Congress, Nixon may find himself caught in a crossfire if he asks Congress to write a new trade law retreating the expired tariff negotiating powers to the president.

Labor —

Nixon backers believe he will try to do something about a longtime complaint of businessmen — that government labor-management policy is biased for labor, and that the National Labor Relations Board seldom sees things the employer's way.

Change may come slowly. Nixon had promised a reappraisal of the Taft-Hartley act, but that law has proved remarkably immune to revision by either Democratic or Republican administrations. The labor board itself can be reshaped, but it will take time for vacancies to occur which can be filled with Nixon's own nominees.

Trade —

Nixon has stated support of liberal trade and tariff policies and opposition import quotas. However, he has alarmed some of his business backers—those having a large stake in foreign trade—by some campaign remarks that had a protectionist flavor. He pledged help specifically to steel and textiles.

With apparently rising protectionist sentiment in Congress, Nixon may find himself caught in a crossfire if he asks Congress to write a new trade law retreating the expired tariff negotiating powers to the president.

Labor —

Nixon backers believe he will try to do something about a longtime complaint of businessmen—that government labor-management policy is biased for labor, and that the National Labor Relations Board seldom sees things the employer's way. Change may come slowly. Nixon had promised a reappraisal of the Taft-Hartley act, but that law has proved remarkably immune to revision by either Democratic or Republican administrations. The labor board itself can be reshaped, but it will take time for vacancies to occur which can be filled with Nixon's own nominees.

NEW YORK (AP) — Television viewers watching Thursday night's hour-long closeup of Michelangelo's Sistine chapel fresco in black and white missed, unfortunately, the best part. It should have been seen in color.

The ABC program consisted of a long and loving inspection of the 300 or so figures created almost 500 years ago by the great artist. It was filmed from scaffolding that brought the cameras almost as close to the ceiling as Michelangelo was when he painted it.

As noted in the narration, Michelangelo combined four religious themes in the huge work: creation, temptation, repentance and redemption. In handling them, he created a marvelous gallery of forms and faces—prophets and fools, very young and very old, exalted and vengeful, beautiful and ugly.

He told stories in his pictures, including the ones about David and Goliath and Noah and the flood. The cameras always moved slowly, but occasionally they lingered over some special detail—an extended hand, the wrinkles or beard on an old man. Sometimes modern lighting equipment dramatically concentrated on a single figure while the rest of the work was in darkness.

Apparently, the producer of the show, who put in a year on the job, had called it "one man's dream," since that was the way it appeared on the TV screen. ABC apparently tried to add a little dash by calling it "The Secret of Michelangelo," although no one ever quite explained just what that was.

The entire pictorial treatment of the Masterpiece was extremely reverent, and it was apparently thought necessary to handle the sound portion in the same way. Thus for the hour we had the rich voice of actor Christopher Plummer and the stage accent of Zoe Caldwell reading portions of the Bible and other suitable fragments appropriate to whatever pictures were on screen.

The hour would have been considerably less somnolent had there been, instead, a brisk, informative commentary, by a student of the arts or the artist, instead of a theatrical reading.

It would have been interesting to know more about the man, the manner in which he worked and also about preservation of the masterpiece—in most of the closeup shots, the cracks on the printings seemed alarmingly long and large.

Generally, it was a worthy educational effort of a type and quality rarely seen on commercial television.

NBC's change of format in its dinner-hour Huntley-Brinkley news show has been in effect for the past few nights. Chet and David now work at twin desks in the same New York studio.

The big change seems to involve Brinkley. He used to specialize in material involving government and politics. That Washington-based chore seems to have shifted to John Chancellor who, though without Brinkley's dry humor, handles it very smoothly, indeed.

Recommended weekend viewing:

Sunday—"Pinocchio," NBC, 7-8:30 EST, "Hall of Fame" adaptation of the old children's story, now spruced up with some new tunes and Peter Noone—Herman of Herman's hermits—in the title role and Burl Ives as Gepetto, the wood carver.

Major Pusey To Speak At Local Church

MAJOR PAUL M. PUSEY

Major Paul M. Pusey, chaplain, will be guest minister at the 7:30 p.m. Sunday service at the Church of the Nazarene. Chaplain Pusey recently completed 12 months of service in Vietnam and will soon assume duties at Fort Knox, Ky.

A graduate of Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee, Ill., and the Nazarene Theological Seminary, Kansas City, Mo., Chaplain Pusey served pastorates in Carey, Marion and Findlay. He served as chaplain in the U. S. Army Reserves and the Ohio National Guard from 1959 until 1966 when he entered active chaplaincy at Fort Eustis, Va.

Chaplain Pusey's wife and three sons, Larry, Steve and Tim, have been local residents during his overseas assignment. Mrs. Pusey is a teacher at Washington Twp. School. The parents of Chaplain Pusey, the Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Pusey are residents of Pickaway County.

Former Minister To Become Priest

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A former protestant minister and Episcopal priest will be ordained a Roman Catholic priest Saturday and members of the two protestant choirs where he served will join in the singing.

The Rev. James D. Schorr, 37, will offer the mass at St. Thomas Aquinas Church.

The Most Rev. John F. Whealon, bishop of Erie, Pa., will preach at the consecrated mass.

Theologians Take Aim At Apostles' Creed

NEW YORK (AP) — "I believe in God the Father Almighty, Creator of heaven and earth; and in Jesus Christ, His only son, our Lord, who was conceived by the Holy Spirit, born of the Virgin Mary. . . ."

Down through their history, Christians have proclaimed these words of the ancient Apostles' Creed, affirming the divine sonship of Jesus through His birth from a virgin.

Today, as the Christmas celebration of that birthday nears, the world's churches—Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox—still declare that belief. But some members—and scholars—question its basic meaning.

That was part of the rumbling in Catholicism over speculation by some of its European theologians concerning the virgin birth.

Like some Protestant counterparts who have raised similar issues in the past, the Catholic analysts don't dispute the doctrine itself and its import, but they give it a new, subtler—and what they term deeper—interpretation.

It doesn't necessarily mean a strictly biological view of virginity, they maintain, but was intended to convey a more profound truth—that Jesus' advent was an entirely new event in history beyond ordinary human capabilities.

The issue is not a matter of questioning the biblical church teaching of Mary's virginity, says the Rev. Gregory Baum, a Toronto, Canada, Catholic theologian, but of asking exactly what it means.

Should the gospel accounts be taken as flat, journalistic recitations of facts? Or are they couched in inspired poetry to convey truths that can't be reduced to literal data?

Differences over such points were involved this week in a Vatican commission's demand for changes in a new adult teaching guide drawn up in the Netherlands, so as to make it uphold a specifically physical view of Mary's virginity.

Some of the guide's authors, including the Rev. Edward Schillebeeckx, take a different approach, maintaining that a narrowly physical view does not reflect the significance of the gospel accounts.

The guide, issued in this country as "The New Catechism," sidesteps the question of Mary's biological virginity, saying Jesus' birth was "the gift of God to mankind," and adding: "This the evangelists Matthew and Luke express when they proclaim that Jesus' birth was not due to the will of a man. They proclaim that this birth does not depend on what men can do themselves."

Surveys have indicated that most Protestants and Catholics adhere to the traditional understanding of Mary's biological virginity.

Father Baum, in a column in the St. Louis Review, an archdiocesan paper, writes: "Many biblical scholars think that the opening chapters of Matthew and Luke are composed in a literary form, common in Jewish literature, called midrash."

"Midrash is a story composed from reminiscences of the Old Testament to announce and celebrate the present goodness of God. If the opening chapters of Matthew and Luke are midrash, they do not give us much factual information. What they teach is the salvation brought by Jesus."

"The Virgin Mary, then, stands for the Virgin Israel, the faithful Israel, in whom and from whom the universal Redeemer was given to the world." He said the understanding holds "powerful meaning."

There can be no doubt, he adds, that the Bible states that "Jesus was born of a virgin. This all Catholics accept. The question, however, remains: what does the virginity of Mary mean?"

First of all, he adds, it means Jesus was "not born in an ordinary way. Flesh and blood did not produce Him. . . . His coming into the world was something new. Jesus came to the world, ultimately, not from His ancestors, but from God Himself."

Middletown Hit By Charges Of Discrimination

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Middletown School Supt. Howard Cromwell declined Thursday night to disclose the nature of what a U. S. cabinet official labels apparent racial discrimination in the school system.

The official with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said it has found what are apparently violations of school desegregation provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

He said the section of the law regarding racial discrimination is involved and federal aid can be cut off from the schools if discrimination is found to exist there.

"We note that the HEW officials did not choose to reveal the points that were being discussed with the Middletown schools," Cromwell said. "We feel that while our case is still under investigation it would not be wise to disclose the questions that have been raised to date in the investigation."

Gilligan Eyes Demo Post, Nixon Job

CINCINNATI (AP)—John Gilligan popped back into the political arena Thursday as a possible candidate for a post with the coming Nixon administration, or as Democratic national chairman.

The former U.S. Representative, defeated Nov. 5 in a bid for a U.S. Senate seat from Ohio, said he received "what I suppose was a formal letter" that was signed by President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

"As you may know, I have pledged to bring to this administration men and women who by their qualities, youthfulness, judgment, intelligence and creativity can make significant contributions to our country," Gilligan said the letter read.

Gilligan said the letter did not specify a position but "I was invited to fill out a job application."

Laughing, Gilligan commented, "I understand he hasn't filled out his cabinet yet."

Gilligan, who said after his Nov. 5 defeat that he had no

Health Commissioner Named At Zanesville

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Lloyd P. May, 48, has been appointed health commissioner for the city of Zanesville and Muskingum and Guernsey counties. He succeeds Dr. Roderic O. Jones, who has taken a position with the Cambridge State Hospital.

Dr. May's appointment is effective Jan. 1. He currently is health commissioner of Delaware, Madison, Morrow and Union counties.

Ex-College Chief Dies

QUAKERTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled here today for the Rev. Arthur S. Rosenberger, president of Bluffton College, Ohio, from 1935 to 1938. The Rev. Mr. Rosenberger died Tuesday night at his home here at the age of 70. He is survived by his widow and three children.

future political plans, claimed that he has never met Nixon, nor talked to him.

Earlier in the day at a student assembly at the University of Cincinnati, U.S. Sen. George McGovern, D-S. D., disclosed Gilligan is his choice for national chairman of the Democratic party.

HOW WOULD YOU ANSWER?

Yes ___ No ___ Though I do worry, I feel there's a way to prevent it.

Yes ___ No ___ Sometimes I antagonize people because of my actions or attitude. I know there must be a way to correct this.

Yes ___ No ___ It seems contrary to reality, but I feel that real happiness is something apart from wealth, power, or fame.

Yes ___ No ___ There must be a practical way of raising my family in a better world.

A "yes" answer to any of these questions is definite proof of God's concern for you. God talks to man by making him "feel" and "know" of a better way of living. You feel discontent about present conditions, you sense "something better," somewhere.

That's God talking to you. Listen to him. Come to church this Sunday. Read His Living Word in the Bible. This could be the chance you've been waiting for.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The former U.S. Representative, defeated Nov. 5 in a bid for a U.S. Senate seat from Ohio, said he received "what I suppose was a formal letter" that was signed by President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

"As you may know, I have pledged to bring to this administration men and women who by their qualities, youthfulness, judgment, intelligence and creativity can make significant contributions to our country," Gilligan said the letter read.

Gilligan said the letter did not specify a position but "I was invited to fill out a job application."

Laughing, Gilligan commented, "I understand he hasn't filled out his cabinet yet."

HOW WOULD YOU ANSWER?

Yes ___ No ___ Though I do worry, I feel there's a way to prevent it.

Yes ___ No ___ Sometimes I antagonize people because of my actions or attitude. I know there must be a way to correct this.

Yes ___ No ___ It seems contrary to reality, but I feel that real happiness is something apart from wealth, power, or fame.

Yes ___ No ___ There must be a practical way of raising my family in a better world.

A "yes" answer to any of these questions is definite proof of God's concern for you. God talks to man by making him "feel" and "know" of a better way of living. You feel discontent about present conditions, you sense "something better," somewhere.

That's God talking to you. Listen to him. Come to church this Sunday. Read His Living Word in the Bible. This could be the chance you've been waiting for.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
. . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Red and Black

CHS Wrestling Team Is Ready For Winning Season

By BILL JOYCE

When wrestling practice got underway for the first time on Nov. 18, there were seven seniors vying for a berth on the squad.

Mike Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith, 830 Maplewood Ave., is a veteran wrestler having two years of experience. When asked why he went out for wrestling, he replied, "This is my third year. I have great plans and hope I can do my part to make the team a championship one."

Chris MacKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacKenzie, 506 Forest Drive, is in his first year as a wrestler. His reason for wrestling is "I went out for wrestling to get into shape and to improve my general attitude. I just want to help the team in some way."

Mark Ralston, son of Mr. and

Mrs. Victor Ralston, 564 N. Pickaway St., is a veteran with three years experience. When asked why he went out for wrestling, he replied, "I've been out since my freshman year and I just wouldn't feel right watching and hearing about the wrestling team."

Jack Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, Dunkle Rd., is also a veteran wrestler with three years experience. When asked why he wrestled, he replied, "Wrestling gives a fellow a chance to sum up what he's made of."

Jack Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boyer, 365 E. Main St., is in his fourth year on the wrestling squad. When asked why he went out, he said, "I didn't have a good year last year so I went out this year to improve."

Stephen Lingo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lingo, 451 E. Main St., is also in his fourth year as a wrestler. "I got a lot of experience last year and hope to be a real credit to the team this year," he commented.

The seventh senior wrestler who is also a four year veteran is Jeff Wise. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wise and resides at 351 Meadow Lane. When asked why he wrestled, he said, "I feel wrestling is a real fine sport, for winning depends on how much you work yourself and not on how much the other guy puts out."

Randy Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin, is the last wrestler who can receive a varsity letter for four years. When asked why he wrestled, he replied, "I went out for wrestling because I think we have a good chance to win the league championship this year."

Jim Samuel, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Samuel, rounds out the senior wrestlers. When asked why he wrestled he replied, "I wrestle because I like it." Jim is a four year veteran who is looking forward to a good season.

Students View Holiday In Many Different Ways

By MINDY WOOD and FRANKIE CARTER

What does the holiday season mean to you? To find out exactly what it means to CHS students and teachers alike, the Red and Black conducted a small survey to answer this question. Here is what we found:

Judy Rose: "It's a time for getting together with friends and family and just being thankful for what you've got."

Mary Tolliver: "It's a time when everyone should be thankful for what they've got, and a time for happiness for why they have it."

Mr. Glenn LaRue: "A chance for both students and teachers to relax and to reflect on the joy and meaning of the season. (Really it's a chance for students to get away from teachers and vice-versa.)"

Steve Cassidy: "It's a time for big dinners, parties and long quiet drives with my girl."

Jim Baker: "Thank goodness we get out of school."

Debbie McKenzie: "Getting out of school and being with Ernie and maybe getting out of town."

Krista Clifton: "The holiday season is the time of year when we get out of school. It also means having parties."

Meg Ebert: "No school and a lot of fun."

Ann Hedges: "It means getting out of school, being able to sleep late and a lot of time to celebrate."

Mike Smith: "The holiday season means party time for me and you. It also means it's time to be thankful for what we have."

Book Fair Rated As A Success

By PATTY GLITT

"Football Stars of 1968" was the book ordered the most at the Book Fair sponsored by the Student Council Nov. 25 to 27.

Books with orders of eight or more were "New Roget's Thesaurus," "Tess of D'Urbervilles," "Mythology," "Anna Karenina," "Gone With the Wind," "Boy Next Door," "Hot Rod Angels," "Letters from Camp," "Crime and Punishment," "Overtime Upset," "Tender Time," "Up the Down Staircase" and "Nineteen Eighty-four." A total of 503 paperback books were purchased.

The book fair was a success due to the participation of the student body, faculty and parents. There were enough books to cover five tables in the library. Students were "Rod Angels." Letters from day in order to observe and order these books.

Shires Named Correspondent For Magazine

Karen Shires, 17, of 144 Pontious Lane, has been named Co-Ed correspondent for the 1968-69 school year, according to an announcement by Miss Margaret Hauser, editor of "CO-ED" magazine.

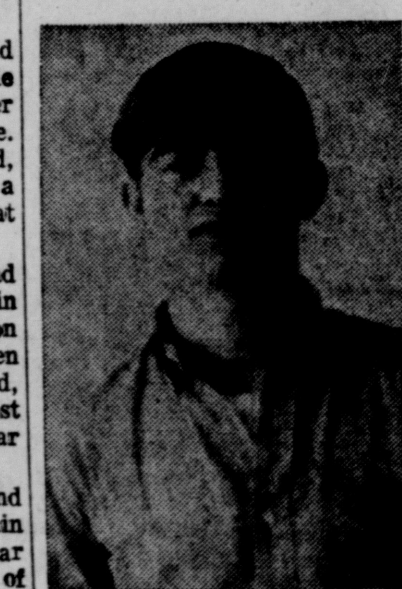

"CO-ED," published nationally by Scholastic Magazines, Inc., for home economics students, contains articles on fashion, food, beauty, home furnishing and fiction.

Miss Shires, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shires, is a senior at Circleville High School. She was elected correspondent by the third year Homemaking Class.

Selected for qualities of leadership and enthusiasm for home economics, Miss Shires will serve as junior advisor to CO-ED editors. Like the other correspondents throughout the United States and Canada, she will keep the editors informed of activities at her school.

Presentation of a special CO-ED correspondent certificate will be made to Miss Shires in a school assembly.

Student Of The Week

BOB MURPHY

By JOE TOMLINSON

Bob Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Murphy, Route 2, has been selected as one of CHS's new student this week.

He is enrolled in the general curriculum and lists lunch as his favorite pastime, along with basketball and track.

Bob has played the guitar for six years and was a member of the Young Americans, a rock-and-roll band, when he and his family resided in Ashland, Ky.

Bob likes the people of Circleville and feels that the students here are really great.

Bad Check Clinic Held

A check clinic was held in the high school studyhall 7:30 p.m. Nov. 21. The clinic was sponsored by the Retail Merchants Assn. of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce, and by the Distributive Education Department of the high school.

Purpose of the clinic was to show how easily bad checks can be passed. During the evening, a film entitled "Paper Hangers" was shown and a panel discussion was held.

Members of the panel were Judge William Ammer, Mr. Wesley Barton of the police department, Sheriff Dwight Radeliff, O. Charles Hosterman, city solicitor; Mr. John Fuller of the First National Bank and Mr. Walter Knight of the London Correctional Institute.

Carla Leigh Enjoys CHS Journalism

CARLA LEIGH

By DAVE SADLER

Can a horoscope enthusiast find happiness in a small sociable school?

Carla Leigh, a cheerful new journalism student, seems to think she can. With a friendly disposition, this 15-year-old sophomore has won many friends in the short time she has been at CHS.

Carla lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Leigh, and one sister, Suzette, at 157 Pinckney St. The opening of the Clifton Theater prompted the Leigh family to move here from Findlay.

While attending Findlay High, Carla was active in choir and Theatians. At Circleville, she hopes to enter into club life, too. Carla is now active in the CHS choir and belongs to the Rainbows.

Although she likes to write, Carla thinks that interviewing people is the most important aspect of journalism. One can be sure that she will do enough of both before the year is over.

About life she states, "I look at it day by day. I don't worry about tomorrow but I always look on the brighter side."

Susan Helen Trout Cheerleader Finalist

CYPRESS GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Ohio University's Susan Helen Trout has been selected a finalist in the seventh annual Miss Cheerleader USA contest. The six finalists were to compete here Dec. 29 for the title.

Miss Trout is a 20-year-old junior from Worthington, Ohio.

Two Matmen Seniors Of Week

By WESLEY JONES and STEVE LINGO

This week the Red and Black is spotlighting two senior matmen during CHS's first year in an official wrestling league.

Mike "Sid" Smith, resides at 830 Maplewood Ave. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith, and his brother and two sisters.

Mike says his foremost ambition is becoming a state champion in wrestling. He has lettered during his sophomore and junior years in the 120-pound weight class.

President of the senior class, Mike is also a member of the Stooze Club, the Circle Staff, EMS and the student council.

He has high hopes for the mat team this year. "I feel that this year's team is the best one we've had since I've been wrestling. There's a couple of guys that are going to be district or even state competitors," said Mike. "This is the first year that we've had an official wrestling league and I predict that Circleville will be its first champion," he continued.

Mark Ralston, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Ralston, resides at 564 N. Pickaway St. He has one sister, Vicky, who is a junior at CHS.

This is Mark's fourth year of wrestling. He lettered his sophomore and junior years in the 154-pound class. This year he will probably wrestle in the 165-pound class.

When asked his opinion of CHS's grapplers he replied, "I think they're great. We really have a good chance this year and with a league for the first time we ought to get more school and public backing."

One has to be dedicated and willing to sacrifice something for any sport you choose to participate in. One needs plenty of hard work to do any good for the team and Mark fills these requirements 100 per cent. His philosophy says the same. "You've got to work hard or you just won't make it. Wrestling is more of an individual sport but there are ten other guys depending on your performance. Many meets have been thrown because of one man, one man giving up or just not doing his job."

Mark also participated in football and swimming. After graduation he hopes to enter a service academy.

The first meet will be with Grove City Dec. 10.

New Attack On Cancer Described

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A young Peruvian physician says he may have cured his half-sister's cancer by giving her cancer-fighting antibodies which he created by injecting himself with her cancerous cells.

Dr. Alfonso Zavaleta Cruzado, 34, said in an interview that the experiment was performed less than a month ago and five years are required before it will be known if his sister, Mrs. Elis Wenzell, has been cured of cancer of the uterus.

But the cancer appears to have disappeared, he added.

Zavaleta said his experiment differs in some respects from similar experiments which are being performed in the United States and elsewhere, with encouraging results.

He said he took specimens of his sister's cancer cells and injected them in his own leg. His system formed antibodies to destroy the foreign cells, the doctor explained, and the antibodies were then transferred to his sister.

Zavaleta said the experiment is similar to the body's natural tendency to form antibodies to resist bacteria or reject transplanted organs.

Dr. Oscar Miro Quesada, an associate of Zavaleta and director of the National Institutes of Health, told The Associated Press: "It is too early to know the results of Dr. Zavaleta's technique. But this is a beginning."

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Kenneth G. Vance, of Parkersburg, Ky., has been appointed Wilmington College's director of public relations, a post which has been vacant since June.

From 1962 to 1966 Vance served as a public speaker and administrator for the state of Kentucky and during the 1967-68 school year, he was a communications instructor and academic writer at Morehead State University.

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Central State University announced Thursday, student fees at the school will be increased by $25 a quarter, effective the first of next year. Tuition will be raised from $77 to $100 a quarter and the student service fee goes from $38 to $40.

CHS Wrestling Team Is Ready For Winning Season

By BILL JOYCE

When wrestling practice got underway for the first time on Nov. 18, there were seven seniors vying for a berth on the squad.

Mike Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith, 830 Maplewood Ave., is a veteran wrestler having two years of experience. When asked why he went out for wrestling, he replied, "This is my third year. I have great plans and hope I can do my part to make the team a championship one."

Chris MacKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacKenzie, 506 Forest Drive, is in his first year as a wrestler. His reason for wrestling is "I went out for wrestling to get into shape and to improve my general attitude. I just want to help the team in some way."

Mark Ralston, son of Mr. and

Mrs. Victor Ralston, 564 N. Pickaway St., is a veteran with three years experience. When asked why he went out for wrestling, he replied, "I've been out since my freshman year and I just wouldn't feel right watching and hearing about the wrestling team."

Jack Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, Dunkle Rd., is also a veteran wrestler with three years experience. When asked why he wrestled, he replied, "Wrestling gives a fellow a chance to sum up what he's made of."

Jack Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boyer, 365 E. Main St., is in his fourth year on the wrestling squad. When asked why he went out, he said, "I didn't have a good year last year so I went out this year to improve."

Stephen Lingo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lingo, 451 E. Main St., is also in his fourth year as a wrestler. "I got a lot of experience last year and hope to be a real credit to the team this year," he commented.

The seventh senior wrestler who is also a four year veteran is Jeff Wise. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wise and resides at 351 Meadow Lane. When asked why he wrestled, he said, "I feel wrestling is a real fine sport, for winning depends on how much you work yourself and not on how much the other guy puts out."

Randy Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin, is the last wrestler who can receive a varsity letter for four years. When asked why he wrestled, he replied, "I went out for wrestling because I think we have a good chance to win the league championship this year."

Jim Samuel, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Samuel, rounds out the senior wrestlers. When asked why he wrestled he replied, "I wrestle because I like it." Jim is a four year veteran who is looking forward to a good season.

Shires Named Correspondent For Magazine

Karen Shires, 17, of 144 Pontious Lane, has been named Co-Ed correspondent for the 1968-69 school year, according to an announcement by Miss Margaret Hauser, editor of "CO-ED," published nationally by Scholastic Magazines, Inc., for home economics students, contains articles on fashion, food, beauty, home furnishing and fiction.

Miss Shires, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shires, is a senior at Circleville High School. She was elected correspondent by the third year Homemaking Class.

Selected for qualities of leadership and enthusiasm for home economics, Miss Shires will serve as junior advisor to CO-ED editors. Like the other correspondents throughout the United States and Canada, she will keep the editors informed of activities at her school.

Presentation of a special CO-ED correspondent certificate will be made to Miss Shires in a school assembly.

Students View Holiday In Many Different Ways

By MINDY WOOD and FRANKIE CARTER

What does the holiday season mean to you? To find out exactly what it means to CHS students and teachers alike, the Red and Black conducted a small survey to answer this question. Here is what we found:

Judy Rose: "It's a time for getting together with friends and family and just being thankful for what you've got."

Mary Tolliver: "It's a time when everyone should be thankful for what they've got, and a time for happiness for why they have it."

Mr. Glenn LaRue: "A chance for both students and teachers to relax and to reflect on the joy and meaning of the season. (Really it's a chance for students to get away from teachers and vice-versa.)"

Steve Cassidy: "It's a time for big dinners, parties and long quiet drives with my girl."

Jim Baker: "Thank goodness we get out of school."

Debbie McKenzie: "Getting out of school and being with Ernie and maybe getting out of town."

Krista Clifton: "The holiday season is the time of year when we get out of school. It also means having parties."

Meg Ebert: "No school and a lot of fun."

Ann Hedges: "It means getting out of school, being able to sleep late and a lot of time to celebrate."

Mike Smith: "The holiday season means party time for me and you. It also means it's time to be thankful for what we have."

Darrell Young Is CHS Teacher Of The Week

By BILL JOYCE

The Red and Black this week is honoring Mr. Darrell Young who teaches Ohio History and geography at the junior high school.

MR. DARRELL YOUNG

Mr. Young attended Amanda-Clearcreek High School and Defiance College. At college he was active in Varsity "D" and basketball. Before coming to Circleville he taught at Watkins Memorial High School for two years.

Golf is listed as one of his main interests, others including standard bred horses and all kinds of sports.

When asked what he thought of the students at the junior high, he replied, "They are typical students, quite likeable, and I enjoy working with them."

Mr. Young resides in Amanda with his wife Dona, and their four-month old daughter.

Book Fair Rated As A Success

By PATTY GLITT

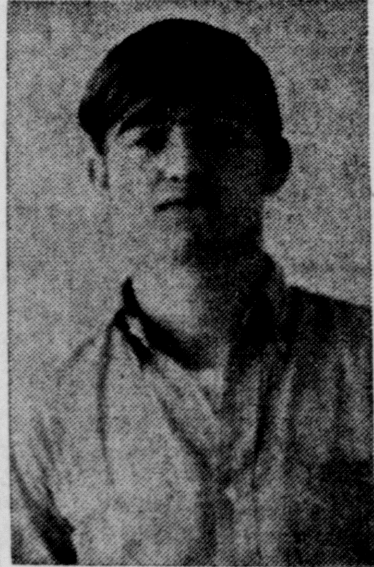

"Football Stars of 1968" was the book ordered the most at the Book Fair sponsored by the Student Council Nov. 25 to 27.

Books with orders of eight or more were "New Rogel's Thesaurus," "Tess of D'Urbervilles," "Mythology," "Anna Karenina," "Gone With the Wind," "Boy Next Door," "Hot Rod Angels," "Letters from Camp," "Crime and Punishment," "Overtime Upset," "Tender Time," "Up the Down Staircase" and "Nineteen Eighty-four." A total of 503 paperback books were purchased.

The book fair was a success due to the participation of the student body, faculty and parents. There were enough books to cover five tables in the library. Students were Rod Angels, "Letters from day in order to observe and order these books.

BOB MURPHY

By JOE TOMLINSON

Bob Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Murphy, Route 2, has been selected as one of CHS's new student this week. He is enrolled in the general curriculum and lists lunch as his favorite pastime, along with basketball and track.

Bob has played the guitar for six years and was a member of the Young Americans, a rock-and-roll band, when he and his family resided in Ashland, Ky.

Bob likes the people of Circleville and feels that the students here are really great.

Bad Check Clinic Held

A check clinic was held in the high school studyhall 7:30 p.m. Nov. 21. The clinic was sponsored by the Retail Merchants Assn. of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce, and by the Distributive Education Department of the high school.

Purpose of the clinic was to show how easily bad checks can be passed. During the evening, a film entitled "Paper Hangers" was shown and a panel discussion was held.

Members of the panel were Judge William Ammer, Mr. Wesley Barton of the police department, Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, O. Charles Hosterman, city solicitor; Mr. John Fuller of the First National Bank and Mr. Walter Knight of the London Correctional Institute.

SPRINGFIELD BOUND — CHS students gathered early Friday morning to board the bus for a trip to visit the new truck assembly plant in Springfield under the direction of faculty member and instructor Stan Spring.

Students Visit Assembly Plant

A bus load of boys and one girl, approximately 60 students, from Stanley Spring's metal and automotive classes at Circleville High School traveled to Springfield to see first hand the new truck assembly plant in operation.

The trip was planned to give the students an opportunity to see how man plans and produces typical metal products.

The production of parts by machine and by skilled personnel gave a vivid portrayal of the world of work in a factory situation.

Students saw assembly methods, the painting and final inspection of lightweight trucks. Less obvious, but important lessons included talks by the guides with regard to the effect of employee absenteeism, machine breakdown and other unanticipated problems which must be handled to maintain production. It is believed that interesting trips to industry help bridge the way from classroom to the job, a situation faced by many of the students only a few months from now.

Students learned as they questioned their guides about the sounds, smells and sights of the new assembly plant and its colorful products.

Saxbe To Be 96th On List Of Senators

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When William B. Saxbe is sworn in as U.S. senator next month, he automatically will rank 96th in the seniority list of 100 senators — unless Sen. Frank J. Lausche resigns early.

"I'm not planning on that," the Republican senator — elected said Thursday. "It would be nice if it worked out, but it's really something I can't do anything about."

Some reports have said Lausche would resign early so Gov. James A. Rhodes could appoint Saxbe to finish his term, thus giving him seniority for committee appointments.

Although Saxbe met in Washington early this week with Lausche, he said they did not discuss the Democratic senator's retirement plans.

Opinions Conflict On Mine Safety Prior To Explosion

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (AP) — One of the miners who escaped says some safety procedures were ignored or there wasn't time to perform them in Mountaineer Coal Co. Mine No. 9 before it was rocked by explosions and 78 men entombed.

Walter Sloveskosky said Thursday rock-dusting, aimed at minimizing floating coal dust that is often highly combustible, was not thorough. He spoke at a hearing on the causes of the disaster.

Mine foremen often did not "have time to make sure" their sections were safe, said Sloveskosky, one of the 21 men who escaped after the first blast Nov. 20, spent six of his 32 years as a miner in No. 9.

The two-day meeting of the West Virginia Department of Mines; officials of Consolidation Coal Co., Mountaineer's parent firm, and representatives of the United Mine Workers union on the disaster continues today.

Charles Biafore, another of the men who reached safety, gave the hearing a different opinion. He said he was "satisfied that I was working in a good, safe section." He said he checked for methane gas "every two or three minutes."

Another of the 21, Russell Foster, said there was no indication of any trouble just before the first explosion.

And Lawrence Riggs, general superintendent of the mine, told the panel the mine's gas content "was checked constantly."

The mine was ravaged by explosions and fires for nine days before officials decided that the trapped men could not be alive and sealed the mine.

Chronology Of A Heart Attack

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A crowd of 64,563 was converging on the University of Nebraska's Memorial Stadium to watch the football game with Iowa State that Nov. 4 day, and Earl N. Deppen was intent on getting to his 26th row seat on the west side of the oval.

"It was a real cold, windy day," recalls Deppen, a Lincoln physician. "I had eaten a little and was hurrying to get to the game and walking pretty fast. I was walking up a ramp when I said, 'I believe I'm getting sick.'"

"Then I collapsed." Dr. Deppen had just suffered a cardiac arrest—a heart attack. Fortunately for Dr. Deppen, his heart attack a year ago occurred in what is believed to be the nation's first football stadium equipped with apparatus and talent to provide emergency cardiac resuscitation on the spot.

Scattered through the stands were about 30 Red Cross volunteers, trained to keep heart attack victims alive during those first crucial minutes by giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart massage.

Down below, at the stadium's north end, a cardiac resuscitation team aided by the most modern equipment unit, was standing by in the first aid station.

One of the 10 Red Cross workers equipped with walkie-talkie radio transmitter-receiver units flashed word to the aid station of Dr. Deppen's plight and an ambulance stretcher crew hastened to the stricken man's location while Red Cross workers did his breathing and kept his blood flowing by massage.

"Dr. Deppen had absolutely no pulse and was not breathing when they brought him in," said Dr. Stephen W. Carveth, Lincoln cardiovascular surgeon. Dr. Carveth headed up the special cardiac resuscitation team through the first two of the three football seasons during which the aid has been supplied, but shared the responsibility this year with Dr. Herbert E. Reese of Lincoln.

The team included two cardiopulmonary technicians, an inhalation therapy technician and two coronary care nurses.

Equipment on hand included a defibrillator, used to provide the electric shock to get the heart pumping after its "electric system" has gone awry and the heart has either stopped or is fibrillating or fluttering ineffectively.

Also on hand was a monitor to take electrocardiograph readings, suction equipment, automatic respirator, automatic massage device and assorted intravenous solutions and drugs.

It took three countershocks with the defibrillator and an intracardiac injection to get Dr.

Deppen's heart rhythm restored. In short order his condition stabilized and he was transferred to the coronary care unit at St. Elizabeth's Hospital for two months of convalescence. "I work every day, even ride horseback," says the recovered patient. "As far as I know, I have made a complete recovery."

Dr. Deppen is one of five helped by the Memorial Stadium preparedness. Dr. Samuel Fuenning, medical director of the University of Nebraska's health services, says the cardiac resuscitation project was a natural "amplification" of the university's emergency first aid program at football games, started a decade ago. Bryan Memorial Hospital in Lincoln provides the cardiac team members and loans the equipment for game time use.

This year, for the first time, the cardiac team found itself without patients, although two Nebraska fans died of heart attacks while attending out-of-town games involving the Cornhuskers.

Mrs. Bolton Looks Back On Record In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A grandmotherly member of Congress, Ohio's Frances P. Bolton who was defeated for reelection, says her terms in Congress since 1940 have been "wonderful years."

The 83-year-old Republican said Thursday, "I have no plans," when asked what she would do when she gives up her seat to Rep. Charles A. Vanik D-Ohio, who decided to run in her district.

However, she said her immediate intentions are to spend Christmas at her home in Cleveland with a large group of relatives then go to Palm Beach, Fla., where she has another home.

Discussing the changes in Congress since she first came to the House, Mr. Bolton expressed distress at the steadily mounting national debt.

She took a partisan stab at the Democrats in Congress, saying they "are not responsible with anything fiscal," but immediately amended her statement to exempt Rep. Wilber Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, "and others like him."

President-elect Richard M. Nixon, she said "is going to have a rough time" with the Democratically-controlled new Congress and added, "he is going to have to get along with it. I see no reason why he will not do a good job."

She said that Nixon had "very much matured" since his defeat in the 1960 presidential race.

"It doesn't hurt anybody to be defeated," she said. "I think he has grown very much."

Commissioners To Take Stand On Income Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The County Commissioners Association of Ohio may soon take a stand on the controversial Sealy legislative committee proposal for a state income tax.

The commissioners group ended its annual session in Columbus Thursday without voting on the plan, but the proposal will be considered by its executive committee in about two weeks.

The Sealy committee, headed by Rep. Albert H. Sealy R-84 Dayton, called for a one percent state income tax to be collected on a county level to replace many existing municipal taxes.

The taxation committee of the commissioner's group has already endorsed the plan.

Welfare Protest Brings Charges

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Some 60 persons, many of them welfare mothers, who staged a sit-in Thursday at the Cuyahoga County Welfare Department building were to appear in Cleveland Municipal Court today on trespassing charges.

The demonstrators began their sit-in shortly after noon Thursday and vowed to "stay all night if necessary" unless welfare authorities agreed to demands for extra winter clothing money for children.

About nine demonstrators were charged with trespassing on the third and sixth floors of the building about 6:30 p.m. Thursday. The remainder of the group were allowed to stay on the ground floor of the building until it closed at 11 p.m., then they too were charged.

Darke Commissioners Injured In Crash

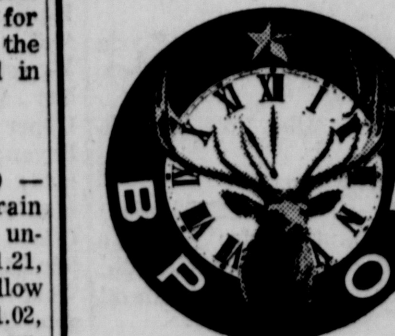

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Three Darke County commissioners returning from a convention in Columbus were injured Thursday in a two-car collision at a county road intersection nine miles southwest of here.

Commissioners Ray Ford and Virgil Deeter were released after treatment at a hospital here. Commissioner Roland Byers was hospitalized.

Veteran Actor Fred Clark Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fred Clark, a veteran character actor who played the explosive boss or a neighbor with a slow burn, died of a liver ailment Thursday night after a month's hospitalization.

An accomplished dramatic actor, he first became known to millions as the television neighbor of Burns and Allen, showing uncontrolled indignation at the late Gracie Allen's antics.

Actor Kicked Off Plane For Remark

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man wearing a beard and pigtail boarded National Airlines flight 64 for Miami, Fla., and, says stewardess Barbara Self, asked, "Is this flight to Cuba?"

Miss Self, who admitted "I was scared," notified a station agent, who told the pilot, Capt. Gerald White.

The man was escorted off the plane Wednesday. When he reached a gate, another agent exclaimed, "My God, it's Marlon Brando!"

Since the 44-year-old actor had a ticket, he was asked to climb back aboard the plane but refused, an airline spokesman said Thursday.

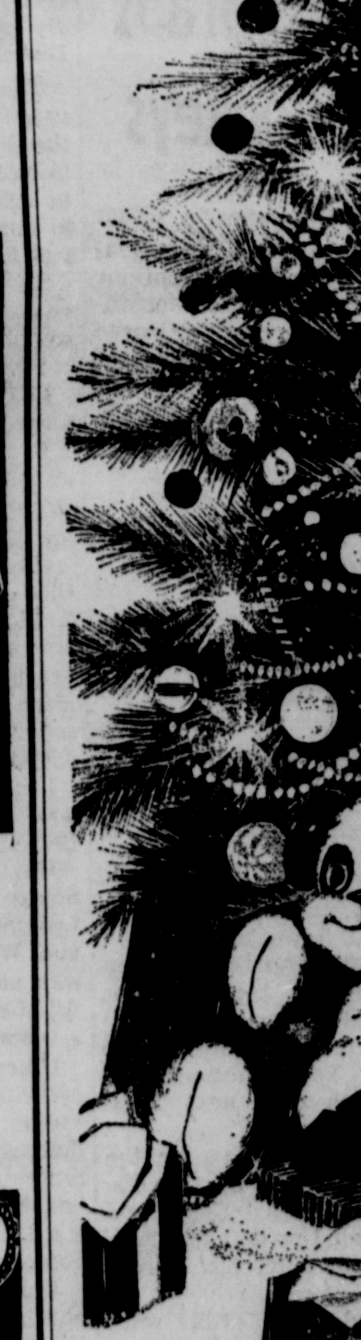

Brando's attorney, Norman Garey, said the Cuba-flight statement "was nothing but an off-handed remark to a stewardess—that's all."

"That was a perfectly silly thing for Brando or anyone to say," the airline spokesman said, "especially when our airline has been hit harder by hijacks than any other one."

SPRINGFIELD BOUND — CHS students gathered early Friday morning to board the bus for a trip to visit the new truck assembly plant in Springfield under the direction of faculty member and instructor Stan Spring.

Students Visit Assembly Plant

A bus load of boys and one girl, approximately 60 students, from Stanley Spring's metal and automotive classes at Circleville High School traveled to Springfield to see first hand the new truck assembly plant in operation.

The trip was planned to give the students an opportunity to see how man plans and produces typical metal products.

The production of parts by machine and by skilled personnel gave a vivid portrayal of the world of work in a factory situation.

Students saw assembly methods, the painting and final inspection of lightweight trucks. Less obvious, but important lessons included talks by the guides with regard to the effect of employee absenteeism, machine breakdown and other unanticipated problems which must be handled to maintain production. It is believed that interesting trips to industry help bridge the way from classroom to the job, a situation faced by many of the students only a few months from now.

Students learned as they questioned their guides about the sounds, smells and sights of the new assembly plant and its colorful products.

Saxbe To Be 96th On List Of Senators

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When William B. Saxbe is sworn in as U.S. senator next month, he automatically will rank 96th in the seniority list of 100 senators — unless Sen. Frank J. Lausche resigns early.

"I'm not planning on that," the Republican senator - elect said Thursday. "It would be nice if it worked out, but it's really something I can't do anything about."

Some reports have said Lausche would resign early so Gov. James A. Rhodes could appoint Saxbe to finish his term, thus giving him seniority for committee appointments.

Although Saxbe met in Washington early this week with Lausche, he said they did not discuss the Democratic senator's retirement plans.

Opinions Conflict On Mine Safety Prior To Explosion

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (AP) — One of the miners who escaped says some safety procedures were ignored or there wasn't time to perform them in Mountaineer Coal Co. Mine No. 9 before it was rocked by explosions and 78 men entombed.

Walter Slovesky said Thursday rock-dusting, aimed at minimizing floating coal dust that is often highly combustible, was not thorough. He spoke at a hearing on the causes of the disaster.

Mine foremen often did not "have time to make sure" their sections were safe, said Slovesky, one of the 21 men who escaped after the first blast Nov. 20, spent six of his 32 years as a miner in No. 9.

The two-day meeting of the West Virginia Department of Mines; the U.S. Bureau of Mines; officials of Consolidation Coal Co., Mountaineer's parent firm, and representatives of the United Mine Workers union on the disaster continues today.

Charles Biafore, another of the men who reached safety, gave the hearing a different opinion. He said he was "satisfied that I was working in a good, safe section." He said he checked for methane gas "every two or three minutes."

Another of the 21, Russell Foster, said there was no indication of any trouble just before the first explosion.

And Lawrence Riggs, general superintendent of the mine, told the panel the mine's gas content "was checked constantly."

The mine was ravaged by explosions and fires for nine days before officials decided that the trapped men could not be alive and sealed the mine.

Chronology Of A Heart Attack

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer
LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A crowd of 64,563 was converging on the University of Nebraska's Memorial Stadium to watch the football game with Iowa State that Nov. 4 day, and Earl N. Deppen was intent on getting to his 26th row seat on the west side of the oval.

"It was a real cold, windy day," recalls Deppen, a Lincoln physician. "I had eaten a little and was hurrying to get to the game and walking pretty fast. I was walking up a ramp when I said, 'I believe I'm getting sick.' "Then I collapsed."

Dr. Deppen had just suffered a cardiac arrest—a heart attack. Fortunately for Dr. Deppen, his heart attack a year ago occurred in what is believed to be the nation's first football stadium equipped with apparatus and talent to provide emergency cardiac resuscitation on the spot.

Scattered through the stands were about 30 Red Cross volunteers, trained to keep heart attack victims alive during those first crucial minutes by giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart massage.

Down below, at the stadium's north end, a cardiac resuscitation team aided by the most modern equipment unit, was standing by in the first aid station.

One of the 10 Red Cross workers equipped with walkie-talkie radio transmitter-receiver units flashed word to the aid station of Dr. Deppen's plight and an ambulance stretcher crew hastened to the stricken man's location while Red Cross workers did his breathing and kept his blood flowing by massage.

"Dr. Deppen had absolutely no pulse and was not breathing when they brought him in," said Dr. Stephen W. Carveth, Lincoln cardiovascular surgeon. Dr. Carveth headed up the special cardiac resuscitation team through the first two of the three football seasons during which the aid has been supplied, but shared the responsibility this year with Dr. Herbert E. Reese of Lincoln.

The team included two cardiopulmonary technicians, an inhalation therapy technician and two coronary care nurses.

Equipment on hand included a defibrillator, used to provide the electric shock to get the heart pumping after its "electric system" has gone awry and the heart has either stopped or is fibrillating or fluttering ineffectively.

Also on hand was a monitor to take electrocardiograph readings, suction equipment, automatic respirator, automatic massage device and assorted intravenous solutions and drugs.

It took three counterattacks with the defibrillator and an intracardiac injection to get Dr.

Deppen's heart rhythm restored. In short order his condition stabilized and he was transferred to the coronary care unit at St. Elizabeth's Hospital for two months of convalescence.

"I work every day, even ride horseback," says the recovered patient. "As far as I know, I have made a complete recovery."

Dr. Deppen is one of five helped by the Memorial Stadium preparedness.

Mrs. Bolton Looks Back On Record In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A grandmotherly member of Congress, Ohio's Frances P. Bolton who was defeated for re-election, says her terms in Congress since 1940 have been "wonderful years."

The 83-year-old Republican said Thursday, "I have no plans," when asked what she would do when she gives up her seat to Rep. Charles A. Vanik D-Ohio, who decided to run in her district.

However, she said her immediate intentions are to spend Christmas at her home in Cleveland with a large group of relatives then go on to Palm Beach, Fla., where she has another home.

Discussing the changes in Congress since she first came to the House, Mr. Bolton expressed distress at the steadily mounting national debt.

She took a partisan stab at the Democrats in Congress, saying they "are not responsible with anything fiscal," but immediately amended her statement to exempt Rep. Wilber Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, "and others like him."

She said that Nixon had "very much matured" since his defeat in the 1960 presidential race.

"It doesn't hurt anybody to be defeated," she said. "I think he has grown very much."

Sims, Smith Honored At Fall Sports Fete

Rick Sims and Mel Smith were singled out for special honors Thursday during the Circleville High School Banquet held at the 4-H and Grange Building.

Sims, Circleville's quarterback-fullback-halfback, was named the Most Valuable Player on the football team. Smith, in addition to receiving the Most Valuable Player award for the Cross country team, received his fourth varsity letter in the sport.

Smith is the last of a rare breed of four-year varsity competitors since CHS is now a three-year high school. It is the second time that Smith has received the MVP award for the Cross Country team.

SIMS is the 23rd Tiger griddier to receive the MVP award, originated for the football team by the Circleville Booster Club in 1946.

James Carter was the first recipient of the traditional award. Only two players have been twice named as the football team's Most Valuable player.

Harold (Sandy) Hill received the trophy in 1948 and again in 1949. Howard (Hodge) Dade received the honor in 1964 and in 1965.

Sims made the All-South Central Ohio League football team as defensive cornerback. He was honorable mention All-District.

The senior griddier started the year as a quarterback. After the third game he was switched to halfback, still later converted to fullback and then returned to quarterback for the season's last two games.

He has lettered for three years on the Tiger football squad.

THE outstanding lineman award presented by the Hall Adkins American Legion Post went this year to Don (Yellowbud) Cordle. Cordle also has lettered three years.

He made the All-South Central Ohio League team as defensive tackle. In addition Cordle saw action as offensive tackle this year and also played center after Steve Barthelmas, the regular center, was sidelined with an injury.

Lee Smith made the presentation for the local American Legion Post.

The Circleville High School Stogie Club presented All-League trophies to Sims, Cordle and Wayne Garrison. Garrison was an offensive tackle on the All-SCO squad this year. He is a senior.

Other awards presented last night included those by the local radio station to outstanding defensive and offensive players. Sims and Garrison received honors on offense and Cordle and Frankie Carter for defensive play.

CARLEN started playing organized football at the age of seven. He played in four major bowl games during his playing days at Georgia Tech, including the Orange Bowl, the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl.

He has helped coach teams that have participated in six bowl games and has coached 11 All-Americans.

In 1963, his first year at the University of West Virginia, his team had a 3-2 record. It was the first time he had ever been associated with a team that had a losing record.

Carlen challenged the Tiger gridders to "look at themselves."

He told the capacity crowd that attended the banquet that he couldn't stand a boy who was arrogant, or the boy who complains all the time.

"WHAT this country needs today is the 100 per center... the 135 pound kid who is willing to give everything and is willing

Oaks Bomb New York Nets 139-122

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Super Oak Rick Barry struck again... helping Oakland take another step toward turning the American Basketball Association's Western Division race from a rout into a fiasco.

Barry poured in 30 points as the Oaks ripped the New York Nets 139-122 Thursday night for their 18th victory in 21 games. The triumph gave Oakland a full seven-game lead in their division.

Meanwhile, Denver survived a 53-point showing by Connie Hawkins to upend Minnesota's Eastern Division leaders 119-118. Indiana stopped New Orleans 118-115 in the night's other game.

Barry collected 17 points in the fourth period after Oakland opened up an early lead and never was headed. Gary Bradds contributed 30 points to the Oaks' attack, which utilized the rebounding of Ira Harge and the playmaking of Warren Armstrong.

Walt Simon topped New York with 29 points. He also was involved in a showing match with Bradds in the opening quarter.

Denver's Byron Beck turned off a Hawkins-led rally in the closing seconds when he pulled down a rebound of Connie's forced shot, then held onto the ball until time ran out.

to play anywhere he is asked." "I don't believe in a good loser and I don't want any of my boys happy after they lose."

"I don't believe in breaking rules. If a youngster isn't willing to live by the rules, I don't want him," Carlen emphasized.

"Football is a dictatorship. If I tell a boy to get his hair cut and he doesn't, I cut it."

Denny Williams, the Circleville head coach, in introducing his team at the banquet, termed the squad "the finest bunch of boys I have ever known."

"I'm glad I knew them. They made my life a little better."

The invocation last night was presented by the Rev. Gerald Stem of the Northridge Road Church of Christ.

ROBERT Liston Jr., president of the Booster Club, welcomed the parents, guests and players to the banquet and presented the MVP awards. Jerry Leist served as master of ceremonies.

Margaret Evans presented the cheerleaders, Garold Sowder the cross country team, John Glanton the junior high football team, and Dan Fouts the freshman team.

Booster officials stated that over 475 persons attended the banquet.

Robert Burton, Route 1, won the car and the grocery gift certificates given away by the Booster Club.

NEW YORK (AP)—Fighting hard to retain all the bowling honors he won a year ago, Dave Davis of Phoenix took the lead in the $80,000 Professional Bowlers Association national championship at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

The slim 26-year-old southpaw won an unprecedented eight straight games of match play, the eighth game of the night from Wayne Zahn of Atlanta, to take over the top spot with 16 games to go Friday.

Zahn won three games, while Dick Weber of St. Louis remained a close third by winning five games. Totals for the top three are: Davis 9,923, Zahn 9,885 and Weber 9,832.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Gary Collins and Bill Glass likely will be back on the Cleveland Browns roster today.

Both have recovered from injuries but it appears Collins won't be used Sunday against the Washington Redskins as the Browns try to wrap up the National Football League's Century Division title.

Coach Blanton Collier says Tommy McDonald will start as flanker in place of Eppie Barney, who suffered a fractured ankle in practice this week.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is one of several Ohio college players named to the North squad for the 20th annual Senior Bowl football game to be played here Jan. 11.

Other backfield performers will include Toledo's Roland Moss. Linemen include Cincinnati end Tom Rossley and Xavier guard John Shinnors. Bob Babich of Miami is among the linebackers.

Tourney Deadline Set

Deadline for entries of the Lancaster Women's Bowling Assn. City Tournament is midnight Dec. 7. It was announced today by Marjorie Mumford, city secretary.

Miami Trace's Bev Lee Gets All-Ohio First Team Berth

By HAL PARIS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ted McNulty, the brilliant quarterback who guided Upper Arlington to its second straight high school football championship, heads up a star-studded cast of players named to The Associated Press Class AA All-Ohio football team.

District boards, made up of sports writers and sportscasters from around the state, helped in choosing the scholastic grid-ders for statewide honors.

McNulty, an adept passer and strong runner, spearheaded an awesome Arlington attack that swept aside 10 straight foes in easy fashion.

A surplus of outstanding runners resulted in the AP dream team naming four backs, in addition to McNulty.

Postell (Junior) Browning of Fostoria, Mike White of Portsmouth, Jim Smith of Massillon and Bev Lee of Miami Trace, made the first unit.

Lorain Senior's Jim Svoboda, an outstanding two-way performer at end, and Chris Zaffer, a guard from Elyria, anchor a strong offensive line.

The defense is bulwarked by middle guard Cal Deitz of Shelby, a 6-7, 250 pound senior and back Jim Lash of Akron Garfield, who picked off 11 interceptions in his last 19 games.

McNulty completed 83 of 152 aerials for 1,414 yards and 15 touchdowns and rushed for an additional 830 and 10 touchdowns for a total offense of over 2,200 yards.

He edged out Steve Williams of Sidney for the quarterback spot. Williams, a fine option quarterback, accounted for more than 2,600 yards for Sidney's undefeated team.

Browning crashed enemy lines for 1349 yards in 284 trips while scoring 14 touchdowns. White, a 5-9 speedster, broke every Portsmouth school record with 1423 yards, 22 touchdowns and 153 points.

Lee, although playing only eight games, rambled for 1,158 yards and 120 points while Smith, the top rusher and scoring the rugged All-American Conference, was over 1,000 yards despite missing his last game.

Second-ranked Mentor landed Duane Derrick at defensive end while No. 3 Canton McKinley's John Brandyberry made it at defensive tackle.

Fourth-ranked and unbeaten Elyria was represented by offensive guard Zaffer.

The second team backfield consists of Doug Root of Cuyahoga Falls; Robert Sims of Steubenville; Lowell Harper of Washington Court House and Jim Tucker of Columbus Eastmoor.

First team offense:

Ends—Jim Svoboda, Lorain Senior and Mike Scannell, Toledo Central Catholic.

Tackles—Stanley Ice, East Liverpool and Tony Pistick, Xenia.

Guards—Chris Zaffer, Elyria and Gary Patterson, Steubenville.

Center—Mike Poff, Vermilion.

Upper Arlington.

Backs—Postell (Junior) Browning, Fostoria; Mike White, Portsmouth; Jim Smith, Massillon and Bev Lee, Miami Trace.

Ends—Duane Derrick, Mentor and Jim Merrill, Upper Arlington.

Tackles—John Brandyberry, Canton McKinley and John Cummings, Cincinnati St. Xavier.

Middle guard—Cal Deitz, Shelby.

Linebackers—John Storm, Springfield South; Don Caldwell, Columbus South and Roger Weir, Cleveland St. Ignace.

Backs—Jim Lash, Akron Garfield; Bill Drahushak, Youngstown Chaney and Dick Altha, Worthington.

Ends—Lenny Masci, Winterville and John Shinsky, Cleveland St. Joseph.

Tackles—Larry Johnson, Columbus East and Mal Stoudenmire, Cleveland Kennedy.

Middle guard—Shad Williams, Portsmouth.

Linebackers—Tim Quinn, Kettering Alter; Bruce Woerner, Gahanna Lincoln and Rocco Rich, Canton McKinley.

Sims, Smith Honored At Fall Sports Fete

Rick Sims and Mel Smith were singled out for special honors Thursday during the Circleville High School Banquet held at the 4-H and Grange Building.

Sims, Circleville's quarterback-fullback-halfback was named the Most Valuable Player on the football team. Smith, in addition to receiving the Most Valuable Player award for the Cross country team, received his fourth varsity letter in the sport.

Smith is the last of a rare breed of four-year varsity competitors since CHS is now a three-year high school. It is the second time that Smith has received the MVP award for the Cross Country team.

SIMS is the 23rd Tiger griddier to receive the MVP award, originated for the football team by the Circleville Booster Club in 1946.

James Carter was the first recipient of the traditional award. Only two players have been twice named as the football team's Most Valuable player.

Harold (Sandy) Hill received the trophy in 1948 and again in 1949. Howard (Hogie) Dade received the honor in 1964 and in 1965.

Sims made the All-South Central Ohio League football team as defensive cornerback. He was honorable mention All-District.

The senior griddier started the year as a quarterback. After the third game he was switched to fullback, still later converted to fullback and then returned to quarterback for the season's last two games.

He has lettered for three years on the Tiger football squad. THE outstanding lineman award presented by the Hall Adkins American Legion Post went this year to Don (Yellowbud) Cordle. Cordle also has lettered three years.

He made the All-South Central Ohio League team as defensive tackle. In addition Cordle saw action as offensive tackle this year and also played center after Steve Barthelmas, the regular center, was sidelined with an injury.

Lee Smith made the presentation for the local American Legion Post.

The Circleville High School Stooze Club presented All-League trophies to Sims, Cordle and Wayne Garrison. Garrison was an offensive tackle on the All-SCO squad this year. He is a senior.

Other awards presented last night included those by the local radio station to outstanding defensive and offensive players. Sims and Garrison received honors on offense and Cordle and Frankie Carter for defensive play.

Jim Carlen, head football coach at the University of West Virginia, was the principal speaker.

CARLEN started playing organized football at the age of seven. He played in four major bowl games during his playing days at Georgia Tech, including the Orange Bowl, the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl.

He has helped coach teams that have participated in six bowl games and has coached 11 All-Americans.

In 1965, his first year at the University of West Virginia, his team had a 3-5-2 record. It was the first time he had ever been associated with a team that had a losing record.

This year his Mountaineers finished the season with a 7-3 record, defeating Syracuse in the final game.

Carlen challenged the Tiger gridders to "look at themselves."

He told the capacity crowd that attended the banquet that he couldn't stand a boy who was arrogant, or the boy who complains all the time.

"WHAT this country needs today is the 100 per center... the 135 pound kid who is willing to give everything and is willing

Oaks Bomb New York Nets 139-122

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Super Oak Rick Barry struck again... helping Oakland take another step toward turning the American Basketball Association's Western Division race from a rout into a fiasco.

Barry poured in 30 points as the Oaks ripped the New York Nets 139-122 Thursday night for their 18th victory in 21 games. The triumph gave Oakland a full seven-game lead in their division.

Meanwhile, Denver survived a 53-point showing by Connie Hawkins to upend Minnesota's Eastern Division leaders 119-118. Indiana stopped New Orleans 118-115 in the night's other game.

Barry collected 17 points in the fourth period after Oakland opened up an early lead and never was headed. Gary Bradds contributed 30 points to the Oaks' attack, which utilized the rebounding of Ira Harge and the playmaking of Warren Armstrong.

Walt Simon topped New York with 29 points. He also was involved in a shoving match with Bradds in the opening quarter.

Denver's Byron Beck turned off a Hawkins-led rally in the closing seconds when he pulled down a rebound of Connie's forced shot, then held onto the ball until time ran out.

to play anywhere he is asked."

"I don't believe in a good loser and I don't want any of my boys happy after they lose."

"I don't believe in breaking rules. If a youngster isn't willing to live by the rules, I don't want him," Carlen emphasized.

"Football is a dictatorship. If I tell a boy to get his hair cut and he doesn't, I cut it."

Denny Williams, the Circleville head coach, in introducing his team at the banquet, termed the squad "the finest bunch of boys I have ever known."

"I'm glad I knew them. They made my life a little better."

The invocation last night was presented by the Rev. Gerald Stem of the Northridge Road Church of Christ.

ROBERT Liston Jr., president of the Booster Club, welcomed the parents, guests and players to the banquet and presented the MVP awards. Jerry Leist served as master of ceremonies.

Margaret Evans presented the cheerleaders, Garold Sowder the cross country team, John Ghlanton the junior high football team, and Dan Fouts the freshman team.

Booster officials stated that over 475 persons attended the banquet.

Robert Burton, Route 1, won the car and the grocery gift certificates given away by the Booster Club.

SPORTS Highlights

NEW YORK (AP)—Fighting hard to retain all the bowling honors he won a year ago, Dave Davis of Phoenix took the lead in the $80,000 Professional Bowlers Association national championship at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

The slim 26-year-old southpaw won an unprecedented eight straight games of match play, the eighth game of the night from Wayne Zahn of Atlanta, to take over the top spot with 16 games to go Friday.

Zahn won three games, while Dick Weber of St. Louis remained a close third by winning five games. Totals for the top three are: Davis 9,923, Zahn 9,885 and Weber 9,832.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Gary Collins and Bill Glass likely will be back on the Cleveland Browns roster today.

Both have recovered from injuries but it appears Collins won't be used Sunday against the Washington Redskins as the Browns try to wrap up the National Football League's Century Division title.

Coach Blanton Collier says Tommy McDonald will start as flanker in place of a fractured ankle in practice this week.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is one of several Ohio college players named to the North squad for the 20th annual Senior Bowl football game to be played here Jan. 11.

Other backfield performers will include Toledo's Roland Moss. Linemen include Cincinnati end Tom Rossley and Xavier guard John Shinnors. Bob Babich of Miami is among the linebackers.

Tourney Deadline Set Deadline for entries of the Lancaster Women's Bowling Assn. City Tournament is midnight Dec. 7 it was announced today by Marjorie Mumford, city secretary.

Miami Trace's Bev Lee Gets All-Ohio First Team Berth

By HAL PARIS

Associated Press Sports Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ted McNulty, the brilliant quarterback who guided Upper Arlington to its second straight high school football championship, heads up a star-studded cast of players named to The Associated Press Class AA All-Ohio football team.

District boards, made up of sports writers and sportscasters from around the state, helped in choosing the scholastic grid-ders for statewide honors.

McNulty, an adept passer and strong runner, spearheaded an awesome Arlington attack that swept aside 10 straight foes in easy fashion.

A surplus of outstanding runners resulted in the AP dream team naming four backs, in addition to McNulty.

Postell (Junior) Browning of Fostoria, Mike White of Portsmouth, Jim Smith of Massillon and Bev Lee of Miami Trace, made the first unit.

Lorain Senior's Jim Svoboda, an outstanding two-way performer at end, and Chris Zaffer, a guard from Elyria, anchor a strong offensive line.

The defense is bulwarked by middle guard Cal Deitz of Shelby, a 6-7, 250 pound senior and back Jim Lash of Akron Garfield, who picked off 11 interceptions in his last 19 games.

McNulty completed 83 of 152 aerials for 1,414 yards and 15 touchdowns and rushed for an additional 830 and 10 touchdowns for a total offense of over 2,200 yards.

He edged out Steve Williams of Sidney for the quarterback spot. Williams, a fine option quarterback, accounted for more than 2,600 yards for Sidney's undefeated team.

Browning crashed enemy lines for 1349 yards in 284 trips while scoring 14 touchdowns. White, a 5-9 speedster, broke every Portsmouth school record with 1423 yards, 22 touchdowns and 153 points.

Lee, although playing only eight games, ramblbed for 1,158 yards and 120 points while Smith, the top rusher and scoring the rugged All-American Conference, was over 1,000 yards despite missing his last game.

Second-ranked Mentor landed Duane Derrick at defensive end while No. 3 Canton McKinley's John Brandyberry made it at defensive tackle.

Fourth-ranked and unbeaten Elyria was represented by offensive guard Zaffer. The second team backfield consists of Doug Root of Cuyahoga Falls; Robert Sims of Steubenville; Lowell Harper of Washington Court House and Jim Tucker of Columbus Eastmoor.

First team offense: Ends—Jim Svoboda, Lorain Senior and Mike Scannell, Toledo Central Catholic.

Tackles—Stanley Ice, East Liverpool and Tony Pistick, Xenia.

Guards—Chris Zaffer, Elyria and Gary Patterson, Steubenville.

Center—Mike Poff, Vermilion.

Marine Pfc. Zeneido Ortiz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Zeneido Ortiz Sr., Lorain.

Tape Recorder Nixed By Saxbe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe ruled Thursday that a tape recorder may not be used to replace a court stenographer in common pleas court. The opinion was sought by Brown County Prosecutor Angus B. Wilson.

Saxbe also ruled that township police have no authority to make arrests on state highways.

Man Sentenced For Check Theft

CINCINNATI (AP) — Judge Timothy S. Hogan sentenced a suburban Milford man Thursday to five years imprisonment after he pleaded guilty to the theft of $16,000 travelers checks.

Wilbur N. Niblick, 40, pleaded guilty on three counts of interstate transportation of a falsely made security. Hogan, of the U.S. District Court, granted a 30-day stay of execution.

Frances Bolton Is Given Honor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Surgeon General Kenneth Pletcher presented Rep. Frances P. Bolton, R-Ohio, with a certificate Thursday naming her an honorary member of the Air Force Nurse Corps.

Mrs. Bolton, nearing the end of her 30-year congressional career, was defeated in last month's election by Democrat Charles A. Vanik.

Dayton Executive Dies In Crash In New Jersey

NEWFOUNDLAND, N. J. (AP) — A Dayton, Ohio, businessman was killed and three other Dayton residents were injured Thursday when their private plane crashed near two homes in northern New Jersey during a snowstorm.

Donald Scanlon, 30, board chairman of Beef 'N' Beer Enterprises, a chain of restaurants, died.

In fair condition in a New Jersey hospital are William Coen, 41, a lawyer and the pilot of the plane, Joseph Benzra, 50, the copilot, and Dorothy Ballard, 27.

Witnesses said the plane, a Piper Comanche, apparently had engine trouble. The plane skimmed over some trees and crashed into the backyard between the two homes. No one on the ground was injured.

Convict Akron Man In February Slaying

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Richard Broughton, 20, Akron, Ohio, was convicted of second-degree murder here Thursday in the slaying of Detroit insurance executive George Cobitz, 50. Cobitz' body was found in a field near here Feb. 19.

Broughton interrupted his trial after the fourth day and pleaded guilty to an open charge of murder, leaving to Circuit Court Judge Ferrell N. Roberts the fixing of degree of guilt. The conviction carries a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.
